Vale Council opts for 3.9 per cent council tax increase

THE Vale Council cabinet has agreed to propose an increase of 3.9 per cent in council tax for the year 2018/2019.

The proposal will be made - and debated - at next week's full council meeting where the final budget will be set.

Cllr John Thomas, the Leader of the Council, explained that although the local authority aimed to make savings of over £6m, there would still be a need to raise more revenue locally.

"With both the demand for our services and the cost of delivering them continuing to rise, the challenges of supporting those residents that rely on the council are more acute than ever.

"The Vale Council has always received one of the lowest funding settlements in Wales from the Welsh Government and we have seen a real terms cut yet again in 2018.

"This means that many of our important local services, including schools and education, are grossly underfunded compared to the rest of Wales.

"Although we aim to make savings in excess of £6.2m over the course of the next financial year, this cut still leaves us with no alternative but to look to raise revenue locally.

"We are proposing an increase of 3.9 per cent which equates to less than one pound per week for residents living in Band D properties.

"This is not a decision that has been taken lightly and I am sure it will be the subject of healthy debate at next week's meeting of full council.

"Given the inequality in the way Welsh

Government funds different local authorities, with the Vale of Glamorgan having suffered from year after year of underfunding, it is, I believe the best way of balancing the need to support vital local services, such as education and social care, with our desire to keep any increase as low as possible."

Proposed council tax rates for 2018/19 are as follows:

Band A £791.28; Band F £1,714.44; Band B £923.16; Band G £1,978.20; Band C £1,055.04; Band H £2,373.84; Band D £1,186.92; Band I £2,769.48; Band E £1,450.68.

These figures will be put to a vote as part of the council's 2018/19 budget at a meeting of full council on February 28.

DIAG'S GROUNDS FOR OPTIMISM?

IN a cynical age, the people in Barry who argued that the 'incinerator' at the docks was always a done deal could be forgiven.

But wait! Although Natural Resources Wales recently gave Biomass UK No 2 Ltd the green light, the Docks Incinerator Action Group believes there have been a number of developments in the last few days which give them hope that the tide might be slowly moving in their favour.

Rotary Club Barry sponsors team for Youth Speaks event

THE Rotary Club of Barry sponsored a team from the town in the Area 4 final of the 'Youth Speaks' competition, which was held in Cardiff. The Gymraeg Bro Morgannwg intermediate team were, from the left, Fflur Bowen, Sara Jones, and Megan Leonard.

They are shown along with Rotary Area 4 assistant governor Liz Davies.

Men in black carry out Barry burglary

POLICE in Barry are investigating a burglary by four men at an address on Severn Avenue.

The incident happened at around 6.45pm on Monday, January 19.

Access was gained to the house by four unknown males who demanded the sole occupant, a 63-year-old man, hand over a quantity of cash and jewellery.

'Politicians need to stand up for Barry'

I WISH to reply to your unnamed correspondent in the letters page of February 15 and counter some of his or her assertions which appear to be made in defence of Aviva/Biomass.

As the gasification plant on Barry docks is described as 'novel technology' this would mean it is not proven technology, and therefore not the best available technology.

If your unnamed defender of this plant has worked on many plants how many are operating successfully?

Avonmouth and two at Teeside are either closed or not operating at expected capacity and some investors are pulling out.

Heating wood to leave ash that needs a chimney to take away emissions is 'incineration' in most people's vocabulary.

High temperatures may remove some pollutants, identified by the writer as potassium and chloride, but that by implication leaves many more polluting chemicals to be dealt with or pumped into the atmosphere.

Chromium (VI) and arsenic have no limits set by NRW. These pollutants come from burning treated wood such as fence panels. These chemicals cause lung disease.

Ash/slag contain heavy metals: the NRW permit states this ash has no recipient.

The Biomass plant in Hull applied to burn waste wood; once operational, within six months, the licence was changed to burn RDF (refuse derived fuels) rubbish to you and me. It brings, as the anonymous writer describes, 'smells and pest infestation.'

Can Aviva/Biomass be trusted to keep to the wood fuel supply and not switch it once it is operational?

This Aviva/Biomass plant is built on a flood plain, again spelling a potential environmental disaster.

Yes, people of Barry pollute by going about their everyday business. Yes, the people of Barry live in one of the most polluted parts of Wales. Yes, Castleland ward is deprived and has chest and respiratory health problems.

Is that a reason to make things worse? I think not. We all, especially our children with developing lungs, deserve cleaner air and a better start than previous generations of Barry.

Finally, politicians need to stand up for their electorate. That is not populist but democracy. Paul Robertson, Barry.

'Remaining in customs union is a mystery'

IT became fashionable to describe Brexiters as inward-looking isolationists, with pulling-up-of-drawbridges and so on, compared presumably with an outward-looking EU.

Yet the reverse is actually the case, as is demonstrated so aptly by the current furore over the so-called 'hard border' between UK Northern Ireland and EU Southern Ireland.

The EU is afraid that the UK, free of the customs union, might reduce tariffs on goods from other countries and that these cheaper goods would leak across the border into the EU, thus destroying its protection against the rest of the world.

Labour MP Graham Stringer has said: "The EU customs regime imposes tariffs on food imports ensuring we pay 20 per cent more than the price on the open world market. We are essentially exporting poverty to Africa and some of the poorest parts of the globe."

Apparently, Labour PM Clement Attlee took the same view after the war. Since clothing and footwear are treated similarly, it remains a mystery why some in Labour, of all parties, want to stay in a customs union.

Does it occur to the EU that by exporting poverty in this way it may be encouraging uncontrollable immigration from Africa? The words 'hoist' and 'petard' come to mind.

The counter argument is that the EU would seek to restrict imports from the UK. Yet China seems to have no problems selling to the EU, so this could only be through spite or fear that other countries, seeing a successful UK, would also want to leave.

As has been said many times, what sort of club is it that has to use threats to keep its membership on board?

R Bradshaw, Cowbridge.

BIOMASS SHOULD HAVE HELD A PUBLIC MEETING

I AM totally in agreement with the letter last week by Mr Delaney.

I have heard so many times that people lack faith and confidence in the whole process of the Biomass application from planning to permitting. This I am sure is much to do with the fact that neither the owners, operators nor NRW have held a public meeting at which they communicate face to face with the people who will be most affected by living near an incinerator.

If they have faith in the technology and believe that it is of benefit, then why would they be unwilling to meet with the public and put their case?

Why would they not want to put people's concerns to rest? Is it that they are unable to make a good case in favour of the technology?

Or that they just don't care about people's concerns?

Cheryl Dobbins, Barry.

Conservative Leader welcomes Minister's 'step in right direction'

SOUTH Wales Central AM Andrew RT Davies has welcomed the Welsh Government's announcement that it intends to insist an Environmental Impact Assessment be carried out on the controversial incinerator at Barry Docks.

Speaking in the Senedd, Minister for Environment Hannah Blythyn last week announced that she has informed the developer she is "minded" to direct that an EIA must accompany the latest planning application before the Vale of Glamorgan Council.

This is, however, subject to representations made by the developer.

Mr Davies - who has long campaigned against the incinerator - described the news as a "step in the right direction" - but stressed that nothing could be taken for granted yet.

He vowed to continue to hold Ministers to account to ensure that an EIA would be made a requirement.

Mr Davies said, "Residents are rightly concerned about the impacts the incinerator at Barry

Docks will have - which in my view is in a wholly unsuitable site.

"It has been frustrating that Ministers have so far failed to intervene - and I welcome the fact this seems to be changing.

"It is positive news that the Minister is minded to insist on an EIA - but we must remember that at this stage it is just that.

"There is still some scope to backtrack - so we must keep up the pressure to ensure this actually goes ahead.

"I will continue to hold Ministers to account as we all look to stand up for Barry."

'Dangerous parking in Barry a huge problem'

IT has become increasingly obvious that illegal and dangerous parking in and around Barry has become a huge problem.

I gather that Civil Enforcement Officers patrol various areas of the county on a daily basis, usually concentrating on the areas that need the most improvement in terms of parking compliance.

While the town centre seems to occupy most of their attention, it does seem that there are many other danger spots which appear to be largely ignored.

Has anybody tried to navigate Barry Road, particularly when the post office is in full swing? Cars are regularly illegally parked on double yellow lines or even on the pavement.

Romilly Primary School is another example of regular thoughtless and illegal parking, usually by parents picking up their children and being situated on a busy roundabout is an added danger.

Having often witnessed cars parked across the entrance to Sainsbury's supermarket creating absolute mayhem, it only seems a matter of time before a tragic accident happens.

While it is impossible to monitor the entire area, both of the locations mentioned can't have gone unnoticed and I am therefore wondering what measures can be applied to reduce the risk to both pedestrians and motorists alike.

Rob Taylor, Barry.

Incinerator is a 'ticking timebomb'

THE people of Barry deserved better. We have been treated with contempt!

The biomass incinerator has been given the all clear, after so much protest, to pollute the air we breathe.

Adding to the mix will be Hinkley Point's radioactive silt offload into the Channel.

Then there's the concoction just waiting to seep out from the sealed up No.1 dock, which is soon to become a children's play park, next to the new development on Cory Way (allocated affordable housing for those who have no option but to live there), not forgetting the established Dow Corning site nearby.

Beautiful Barry is no more - it is a dumping ground and a ticking timebomb for the future of those who have the misfortune to live here.

T Aberly, Barry.

HIGH TIDE TIMES

(UNTIL MARCH 1)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary.

For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 - 25 minutes later.

Commissioner 'hears' public concern over Biomass plant

SOPHIE Howe, the Future Generations Commissioner for Wales, has written to Natural Resources Wales (NRW) to ask them to demonstrate how the 'Well-being of Future Generations Act' is being applied in the environmental permitting process.

Campaigners against the Biomass UK No 2 Ltd plant at Barry docks have welcomed the move. They would like to see a full Environmental Impact Assessment carried out.

Ms Howe explained: "Over the last few months I have been contacted by a number of people who have expressed concern about a range of developments across Wales, in particular the Barry Biomass scheme and also the Hazrem waste treatment facility in Cwmfelinfach.

"Unlike other commissioners, the powers set out in the Well-being of Future Generations Act do not give me a specific case-work function and I do not have the powers or resources to take action on every issue which is raised with me.

"I have however pledged to listen to concerns the public raise and to monitor these to detect any wider systemic issues in terms of how public bodies are applying the Well-being of Future Generations Act.

"The approach NRW takes in their environmental permitting decisions has emerged as a common thread in the concerns raised to me by the public and local representatives.

"As the Future Generations Commissioner I am keen to ensure that the Well-being of Future Generations Act is embedded in the work of public bodies and, in particular, that the process that is followed by NRW in respect of their whole approach to environmental permitting and licensing is consistent with the act and that generally the Well-being of Future Generations Act is embedded in the work of public bodies.

"I have therefore formally requested further information from NRW including worked examples of how the act has been applied alongside the requirements of other legislation.

"This request was made prior to the recent decision made on Barry Biomass."

Ms Howe said she had had a meeting with Diane McCrea, the chair of Natural Resources Wales, and added: "They have indicated that they are willing to cooperate in providing this information and I welcome their willingness to do so. I will consider the information they provide closely in the light of the duties set out the act."

Diane McCrea told THE GEM she welcomed any advice provided by the commissioner.

"We have met with the commissioner's office on a number of occasions to discuss how the Well-being of Future Generations Act is applied in our duties, including our permitting processes. We are committed to ongoing discussions on this matter.

"Our decision documents set out how we reach our conclusions which involves extensive public consultation including with external bodies. This is all publicly available.

"We are happy to consider further how we apply the Wales legislation to our permitting processes and would welcome the commissioner's advice and guidance in doing this. As permitting regulations are derived from EU law, we have asked Welsh Government to be part of that discussion as they are the legislator in Wales."

THE Medal of Ushakov was awarded to Mr David Simpson at a ceremony in Barry on February 10.

Mr Simpson received the honour from the Russian Federation for his participation in vital supply convoys during World War Two.

The Arctic Convoys became a byword for heroism as Allied seamen delivered essential supplies to the Soviet Union's northern ports, combating freezing conditions and treacherous seas.

Pupil left on school bus in Penarth

AN investigation is under way after a Penarth pupil with Down's syndrome failed to arrive home and was found on a bus at the depot.

The incident happened last month. A spokesman for the Vale Council said the contract with the transport provider had been terminated.

David Davies, head of Achievement for All, said: "We are very sorry for the impact that this incident has had on the pupil and their family.

"This incident was an unacceptable failure on the part of the private transport provider and their contract for transporting this pupil was terminated with immediate effect.

"An investigation into the incident is now taking place in line with the All Wales Child Protection Procedures and appropriate action will be taken following its conclusion.

"While the investigation is still ongoing it is clear that no fault at all lies with the school, where staff acted swiftly to support the parents as soon as it became apparent that the pupil had not been returned home.

"Staff at the school are now providing counselling to this individual pupil.

Mr Davies added: "Enhanced training for all contracted SEN pupil transport providers will be delivered during the next two weeks."

Is the tide starting to turn in favour of DIAG?

THE Docks Incinerator Action Group thinks an 'environmental impact assessment' may soon be applied to the Biomass UK No 2 Ltd plant at the docks.

Although Natural Resources Wales (NRW) granted a permit for it to operate, DIAG believes events might be moving in their favour.

A spokesman explained: "Since NRW's controversial decision, things have changed.

"The Future Generations Commissioner Sophie Howe announced a wide-ranging review into NRW's decision-making processes, citing the Barry incinerator as a project causing public concern.

"This was followed by announcements from Leslie Griffiths, the Cabinet Secretary for Energy,

Planning and Rural Affairs, and Hannah Blythyn, Welsh Environment Minister, saying that they are minded to subject the incinerator to an environmental impact assessment (EIA).

"The EIA for the incinerator was erroneously omitted during the initial planning stage in 2015.

"DIAG has long called for the incinerator to be subject to an EIA, and welcomes the news that the Ministers have officially requested it. DIAG are also pleased to be invited to discuss these issues with the Environment Minister's Office."

DIAG says it hopes there will be a number of issues on the agenda including consulting with the community when an EIA is prepared; allowing the community to respond to the operators; and confirming the quality of the EIA and the competence of the experts preparing it.

Councillor says: 'Make a stand against incinerator'

A Barry councillor will urge fellow Vale councillors to take a collective stand in opposition to the incinerator next week.

Cllr Vincent Bailey (Dyfan Ward) has tabled a motion for the full Vale council noting "with concern" Natural Resources Wales' decision to grant a permit to operate the Biomass UK No 2 Ltd facility in Barry. The motion is to be seconded by Cllr Christine Cave.

The motion also calls on the Vale Council to criticise NRW's decision not to demand an 'Environmental Impact Assessment' before taking a decision; and calls for proper independent monitoring to be undertaken.

Cllr Bailey who opposes the incinerator said he wanted councillors of all parties to "take a side" on the controversial application, and to send a firm message to NRW and the Welsh Government that the public do not want the plant in Barry.

He said: "We need to take a side on this application, so that the public know that the council is truly speaking for them and acting on their behalf.

"The decision to grant a licence was deeply disappointing, and the Welsh Government will ultimately be held to account for it."

He claimed: "There are signs that the Labour Government is cracking under pressure from the Docks Incinerator Action Group and we need to press home the point that Barry residents cannot be exposed to extra pollution without a proper environmental assessment having taken place.

"Ultimately, I still believe that we can stop this in its tracks and I sincerely hope that councillors of all parties will support our motion and send a message to Biomass and NRW that the Vale speaks as one on the incinerator."

THE VALE OF GLAMORGAN COUNCIL (LAVERNOCK ROAD, PENARTH) (ESTABLISHMENT OF A TOUCAN CROSSING)

1. The Vale of Glamorgan Council in exercise of its powers under Section 23 of the Road Traffic Regulation Act (1984) (as amended) and of all other enabling powers intends to remove an existing pedestrian refuge and establish a Toucan crossing for the reason described in Schedule 1 and at the location described in Schedule 2 below.

2. Full details of the proposal and a copy of the plan (T/18/03/MT) may be inspected at the address shown below during normal office hours.

SCHEDULE 1

The scheme is being promoted to reduce the instances of drivers failing to stop whilst pedestrians and cyclists are waiting to cross at the existing pedestrian refuge.

To mitigate the aforementioned, a Toucan crossing has been recommended to ensure drivers react to a red light aspect, rather than rely upon their spatial awareness of pedestrians and cyclists in the vicinity of the crossing point.

SCHEDULE 2

Replace the existing pedestrian refuge, the centre of which is located 17 metres southwest of the centre of its junction with Cosmeston Drive, with a Toucan Crossing.

Cash and jewellery is stolen as... Masked men carry out a burglary in Barry

All four of the culprits were dressed in what is described as black suits and wearing black hats. They also had their faces covered.

They made off with cash, a number of items of cash and a wrist watch.

Detective Constable Kirsty James from Barry CID, who is investigating the crime, said: "Thankfully no-one was hurt during this incident."

"However, this was very distressing for the victim and we are appealing to anyone who may have seen anything suspicious in the Severn Avenue area on Monday evening."

"The stolen jewellery is of great sentimental importance to the owner and we want to hear from anyone who may have been offered any or who may know of its whereabouts."

Anyone with information concerning this matter is asked to contact South Wales Police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 and quote reference 18000 62864.

The 'Big Barry Spring Clean' is on its way!

BARRY Town Council and Zero Waste Cardiff have been working together to bring the Big Barry Spring Clean to the town throughout March.

The campaign focuses on encouraging friends, family and colleagues to come together and litter pick an area. Each week focuses on a different theme, but groups can pick the theme that suits them best.

The campaign will launch on March 1 with a

#SpringStreetClean in week 1; #LoveYourLane in week 2; #BarrySpringCleanSemi nar in week 3; with the campaign coming to an end in week 4 with a #FavouriteBarryBeachClean.

For further information email Barry Town Council, info@barrytowncouncil.gov.uk, to request an information pack.

More updates can be found by following Twitter @barry_tc / @ZWC Cardiff, Instagram @BarrySpringClean and Facebook Barry Town Council.

The Friends of Barry Beaches

AFTER being abandoned in January due to the heavy rain, Friends of Barry Beaches hope February's beach clean will be a little luckier.

This month's beach clean is scheduled for Sunday, February 25 at Whitmore Bay, Barry Island. Volunteers should meet near Marco's Cafe at 3pm and please wear suitable clothing and footwear.

We welcome volunteers of all ages but ask that children are accompanied by an adult. Litter pickers and bin bags will be provided and we always try to recycle as much waste as possible.

VALE COUNCIL SAYS 'NEED TO RECYCLE MORE' COULD SEE IT FOLLOW BRIDGEND

THE Vale Council is considering following its neighbouring council Bridgend (BCBC) and asking householders to separate more of their household recycling – and also limit the number of black landfill bags.

The Vale Council believes it could benefit to the tune of £400,000 a year.

At present, the council operates a 'co-mingling' system, but a change was under consideration at a cabinet meeting on Monday this week (February 19).

Bridgend County Borough Council changed its system in April last year. The change-over to a more comprehensive regime sparked a storm of protest, and a number of councillors and residents are still unhappy with the system.

The Vale Council says the proposed change is driven by the need to increase recycling levels and cut costs. The council hopes to qualify for a Welsh Government grant to help pay for the changeover.

At the moment, the recyclable materials collected by the Vale Council – glass, paper, tins and plastic – are simply transported to a re-processor in the north of England. The council receives no money at all for this material.

If the cabinet says yes, then a consultation will begin on how best to introduce the changes, with the new measures due to come into effect from September.

Cllr Geoff Cox, the Cabinet Member for Neighbourhood Services and Transport, said: "The council must change the way in which we collect residents' waste and recycling in order to bring our service into line with changes to the law, and more importantly make it economically and environmentally sustainable.

"The changes I propose have been determined following a thorough evaluation of all the potential options and are subject to the council receiving a substantial capital grant from Welsh Government to assist with infrastructure costs.

"How we go about implementing them, however, will be decided based on the views of residents.

"As a county we have been set a challenging target by Welsh Government of recycling 70 per cent of the Vale's waste by 2025.

"We can only achieve this if more residents than ever are willing to play their role in recycling and we will soon be launching a public awareness campaign to inform residents of the changes and why we must all work together to make them a success."

Separated collections will result in much lower levels of contamination and in turn a higher sale price for the material.

The council will also be able to find its own markets due to the higher value of the material and will seek to find these markets as close to the Vale as possible.

Alongside the changes to collections the council intends to build a new waste transfer station within the Vale where recyclable material can be stored before it is sold.

A Vale Council spokesman added: "The significant reduction in the costs of transporting recyclable material along with the higher sale price are predicted to result in savings to the council of around £400,000 each year.

VITAL CHANGES ARE NEEDED TO OUR WASTE AND RECYCLING SERVICE

I WROTE to all residents in 2011 to explain the reasons for moving from a 'source separated kerbside recycling collection service' in which different materials were collected over a two-week period, to a 'weekly co-mingled collection service' where all materials could be mixed and collected on a weekly basis.

At the time we said that the recycling and waste collection arrangements would have to be kept under review to ensure that they remained sustainable, met Welsh Government objectives and the National Waste Strategy.

We also explained that world markets for recycling would need to be monitored to establish if certain materials needed to be collected separately in the future to protect their value.

A lot has changed since 2011. We are no longer one of the best performing counties for recycling and our recycling reprocessing costs for co-mingled materials is increasing due to a fall in the resale value of what we collect.

Crucially, in 2015, legislation came into force requiring local authorities to 'set up separate collections of waste...for at least paper, metal, plastic and glass'.

Since then, the Welsh Government has provided help in assessing our compliance with the new legislation and also the National Waste Policy by reviewing and reporting on our waste options.

This week I presented a report produced by their partners, Waste Resource Action Programme. It detailed the outcomes of this process and the changes to our waste and recycling service that I believe are required to enable us to better manage our future waste costs and to remain within current legislation.

The changes will also help us reach the 70 per cent recycling target for 2024/25 that we must achieve to avoid Welsh Government fines.

The changes will be subject to public consultation prior to implementation, but I am recommending a move to 'source separated weekly dry recycling collections' later this year.

This is, however, subject to the council receiving funding from the Welsh Government to assist with the change in collection vehicles and the building of a new waste transfer station.

It should be noted that this funding is only available for councils that move towards separate kerbside collections of dry recycling, as this complies with the Welsh Government 'blueprint' for collections and current National Waste Policy.

We estimate that these changes would save the council around £400k each year. The service would use plastic boxes and blue bags.

I am also proposing a limit to the number of black bags that can be placed out for collection, like many other councils in Wales currently have in place, to try and encourage increased recycling.

Concessions will be offered for large families and those with specific needs, such as a requirement to dispose of sanitary products. This is one of the factors that will be considered as part of the public consultation process.

Food waste collections

by Cllr Geoff Cox,
Cabinet Member for Neighbourhood
Services and Transport

will remain the same.

I appreciate that what is being suggested is a major service change that will affect every resident, yet I believe it is a necessary change at this time, as I did when we last implemented major changes to this service in 2011.

I need the cooperation and understanding of all our residents as we move into this challenging time for waste management in Wales.

We will, of course, provide every support as we progress with these changes and I look forward to the Vale once again leading the way in Wales in this most important service area.

LIBRARY HOSTS BARRY AUTHORS

TWO authors with close links to Barry hosted a successful 'in conversation' event at the county library on Tuesday, February 13.

Evonne Wareham, who lives in the town, and Sandra Mackness, who grew up in Barry, interviewed each other and then answered questions from the audience.

Sandra (who writes under the name Jill Barry) said: "We enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon at Barry Library. The audience were very attentive and asked great questions.

"Some of the topics Evonne and I dealt with were: 'How did we start?'; what inspires us; the genres in which we write; the pros and cons of using a pseudonym; our latest books and what we are working on at the moment."

"Everyone took part in a simple competition, with two prizes going to the people whose chosen character names were pulled from the hat."

Senior librarian Melanie Weeks commented: "The conversation format was great and the afternoon was very informative."

A call for 'Plastic-free Barry town'

PLAID Cymru have called for a 'Plastic Free Barry' in a motion to Barry Town Council for the council's next meeting on February 26.

Plaid Cymru leader on Barry Town Council, Cllr Shirley Hodges, has submitted the motion, supported by the rest of the Plaid Cymru group.

She said: "Plaid Cymru shares the concerns of the wider community over the amount of plastic waste pollution and its adverse effect upon wildlife and our coastline."

"As part of our responsibilities towards global sustainability under the Well-being of Future Generations Act, and in keeping with the principles of Fairtrade and 'Shop Local' that have already been adopted by this council, we support Barry becoming a 'plastic free town'."

Cllr Mark Hooper, chair of the Barry Shop Local committee, said: "As part of this proposal, we will contact local businesses to encourage them to replace single use plastic items, reduce unnecessary packaging and apply principles of sustainability within their everyday businesses."

"It's important that we, firstly, don't use unnecessary resources in the first place and then consider how we can reuse or recycle what has been made."

Cllr Steffan Wiliam, who represents Barry Island, added: "Our beaches, coastline and natural environment need to be protected for enjoyment by future generations."

"As a member of the Vale Council's environment and regeneration committee, I will see how the Vale Council can best support these aims."

Local barber aims for British crown

Sean demonstrating his skills at a recent event.

A DINAS Powys barber has made it to the shortlist of a nationwide competition to be crowned the very best wet shaving barber in Great Britain.

Sean Sweeney, from Sweeney's Barbershop at 5 Castle Court, will face razor sharp competition from fellow craftsmen near and far in his quest to win the competition.

The 35-year-old is set to face-off against other top barbers in the Welsh regional final of 'Britain's Best Shave 2018' at James William Barbershop in Neath on Sunday, March 18.

If he secures the top spot in the regional heat, Sean will face the most crucial shave of his life at the national final, which will take place inside a boxing ring at Barber UK at the Birmingham NEC on Sunday, May 20.

Sean is a previous Welsh champion, winning in 2015 and 2016, and is now returning to try and reclaim his crown.

He said: "The wet shave has become more and more popular the last few years. I've been practising more than ever so that I can come back and claim the title."

"I'm excited to be competing in the regional heats for Britain's Best Shave once again, and I can't wait to meet the other contestants."

Lift appeal by the Penarth Yacht Club

PENARTH Yacht Club has launched an appeal to raise funds to install a lift at its 19th century clubhouse to ensure the club is accessible for older members, as well as those who have mobility issues.

The nature of the clubhouse, a Grade II listed building dating back to the early 1880s, means there has to be a minimal impact to the building and its infrastructure.

The committee came to the conclusion that a lift is the best means of improving accessibility. Spokesman Mr Tony Kirkland said: "We are really looking forward to having the lift installed to help our less mobile members."

A lift company, Stiltz, has been recommended to the club and plans for the lift are currently with the Vale Council for consideration and a final decision.

Penarth Yacht Club is hosting a club event for its members dubbed the 'Raise the Lift Appeal'.

The event is a 24-hour extravaganza with a range of family-friendly entertainment and will encourage members to dig deep for donations to the fund.

The appeal has drawn support from local companies Archytas Strategic Planning and Masons Self Storage, which have both offered a financial donation to the appeal as well as resources for the appeal event.

In addition, Masons Self Storage has provided the time and resources of their creative marketing and communications agency, ONCREE.com.

'Fair funding' for Vale pupils demanded

THE Leader of the Vale Council and chair of the Schools Budget Forum have jointly written to Cabinet Secretary for Education, Kirsty Williams, and all parents in the Vale setting out their concerns over the chronic underfunding of education in the county.

The level of funding allocated per pupil within the Vale is the lowest in Wales.

In the letter, which is signed by executive headteacher and Forum chair Dr Vince Browne and Cllr John Thomas, they highlight to parents that the Vale receives £606 less per pupil than the Welsh average and £1,360 less per pupil than the highest-funded local authority.

Cllr Thomas said: "We have some of the best schools and most able and enthusiastic teaching and support staff in Wales working here in the Vale, but their work is being undermined by a flawed funding system."

"The level of funding that each local authority receives is determined by a formula designed by Welsh Government."

While it may have once been effective, this formula has not been reviewed for 17 years and relies on data gathered in the 1991 census.

"It simply beggars belief that the funding of possibly the most important area of our work is determined by data that is almost 30 years old."

"I have raised concerns about this directly with Welsh Government on numerous occasions. The responses I have received have given me absolutely no confidence in the methodology used to distribute education funding across Wales. Perhaps more worryingly, they have also shown a complete unwillingness to reconsider their approach or to address any of the clear flaws that have been raised."

"It is because of this refusal to even consider alternatives that I felt there was no option but to share with the parents of the pupils whose education the Council is responsible for my opinion that their education is being held back by the use of an outdated and flawed Welsh Government formula."

Dr Browne said: "I have been a member of the Vale Budget Forum Group for many years and have witnessed year after year students in the Local Authority receiving the lowest level of funding of any students across Wales."

"I have also witnessed the gap in funding between students in the Vale and other students across Wales growing. I believe that there is clear evidence that the funding methodology employed by the Welsh Government disadvantages the education of pupils in the Vale and is flawed and out of date."

"The Welsh Government states that the principles by which they allocate funding are equity, stability, clarity and relevance. I am calling for a review of the formula to ensure that it meets these stated principles in order to ensure that all students across Wales are treated equitably."

Due to reductions in the funding received from Welsh Government, the Vale Council's budgeted expenditure per pupil in 2017/18 is at the same level it was in 2012/13. This is despite the authority channelling £3 million above the 2017/18 Welsh Government Indicative Spending level into schools funding in the current financial year.

Spending on education represents 45 per cent of the Vale of Glamorgan Council's overall budget.

A Welsh Government spokesperson said: "Despite years of austerity from the UK Government, not a single Welsh local authority faces a reduction of more than 0.5 per cent in their core funding next year. This is in stark contrast to Local Government budgets in England which have been slashed by 12 per cent since 2011."

"Delivering the best education for every child in Wales is a key priority for this Welsh Government. Across Welsh Government we have taken action to prioritise funding to the Local Government Settlement to ensure resources go straight to the front line to support schools."

"School funding is the responsibility of local councils - we expect them to deliver our shared aim of high quality education for every child and set budgets at a level which gives every school the resources needed to reflect this priority."

Wildcats are crowned as league champions

CONGRATULATIONS to the Witchill Wildcats on winning the Asprou Barbers Vale Thursday Pool League.

The Wildcats won the league with a game to spare, travelling to the King William IV pub in Cadoston to play their rearranged match, and they came away with the seven points needed to clinch their first league title.

The game ended 6-6 and the bonus point was won by man of the match Ceri Morris, who potted the last black in the sudden death black ball shoot-out.

The King William gave a good account of themselves against much stronger opposition, with Neil Tipples, Les Hunt and Geoff Froud fighting for every point.

However, the night belonged to the Wildcats and Ian Hill, who would win three out of four games, and was well supported by Paul Everest and Sian Kedward.

Ceri Morris, last year's break and dish champion, was at it again in frame five and frame eight.

In a nailbiting final match of the season, the Dark Lords visited the Baruc Arms needing a victory to secure second place in the league. In a close match, the teams arrived at a 5-5 situation with the Dark Lords needing to win both of their remaining doubles.

Gavin Rowlands and Matt Tobin duly won the next frame to set up a final frame decider. Ralph Miners and Wayne Hobson won the frame, narrowly defeating James Latham and Robert Larkin thanks to superb shot making from Wayne.

Man of the match goes to Matt Tobin who won all four of his matches, with a special mention to Sean Kelly who was also unbeaten on the night.

Glenbrook Wanderers cruised to a 8-4 win against Millwood Pot Jacks with captain Jeff Bartle getting man of the match with his four out of four wins. He was ably supported by Rhodri Thomas, who won three out of four and Karl Marsh and Nick 'Hurricane' Taylor.

The Pot Jacks would have Gary Williams and Nigel Tutton start the evening well but struggled against the determined Wanderers.

O'Briens hosted Finnegan's and found themselves 6-2 down against the Islanders but somehow won the last three out of four frames to only lose 7-5.

Finnegan's started strongly through Kane Grindley, Carson Martin and Steve Neilson and continued to add the pressure by winning the first set of doubles.

By the halfway point this would look like an easy win for Finnegan's, but O'Briens' captain Martin Croke had other ideas and his team fought back in the second half with Jeff Morgan and Rob Emmitt restoring some pride. Overall, a 7-5 win for Finnegan's was a fair result.

The Ship hosted the Libs Rejects and found themselves trailing 5-1 down at the halfway point, with Mike Dunn winning their only point.

The second half of the match was a 3-3 draw, giving the rejects a well deserved 8-4 away win.

Mike Roberts would be named man of the match after his 100 per cent success on the night, winning four out of four games and was supported well by captain Alex Campbell, James Bastow and young Tom Ivins.

League champions Witchill Wildcats played their last game at home against the King William, the side they beat three days before in a rearranged fixture.

It is fair to say the newly-crowned champions treated this game like an exhibition match. Steve Watkins, James Hill and Chris Bardsley quickly gave the Wildcats a 3-0 lead in an open and attack-minded games.

The King William responded with the same attitude, trying to out-pot their superior opponents, but to no avail. A match played with plenty of banter and some outrageous potting!

Ceri Morris, Ian Hill, Sian Kedward and Lawrence Klee would see the Wildcats get another deserved victory, their 17th out of 20 games. Wildcats 8 King William 4.

The Cup starts in early March and it gives another opportunity for new teams to join the Thursday pool league.

We are looking for players to join the Glenbrook, the Baruc Arms and Barry Town Football club.

If you would like to join then text Joe on 07870 498 738.

Thanks again to sponsors Asprou Barbers, Park Crescent, Eze Drive driving school and R&M Mobile Valeting.

Barry paedophile is jailed for two years

A PAEDOPHILE who preyed on an 11-year-old girl via Instagram while posing as a teenager has been jailed for two years at Cardiff Crown Court.

Lee Bateman, 23, was told by Recorder Martin Powell QC: "You had everything going for you, but the evidence shows you have an unhealthy interest in pubescent children."

Bateman, a man with no previous convictions, of Wolfe Close, Barry, admitted two charges of inciting a child to engage in sexual activity. He also admitted attempting to incite a person to engage in similar activity.

The girl involved said Bateman, after contacting her, began to sexualise his conversation and his messages to her became "dodgy", said prosecutor Matthew Cobb.

He said that Bateman contacted the girl via Instagram.

Initially she told him she was 13, then that she was 12, and finally her true age of 11 was revealed.

He would send her messages, ending with kisses.

Mr Cobb said: "He asked her to do 'rude things'."

The girl told a friend who spoke to a teacher and the police were called in.

Bateman had told the girl it was "fun speak, rude and naughty".

A police officer got in contact with Bateman, posing as a 12-year-old. Bateman said he was 16 and said: "Just do it, we can have fun time."

Bateman was identified and arrested.

Mr Cobb said he did not accept being responsible and only when the case came to court did he admit his culpability.

His solicitor, Derek Gooden, said: "He has pleaded guilty to serious offences. There was an element of denial and an attempt to place the blame on others."

"It is obvious he has an unhealthy interest in young children, causing him to send them disturbing, tasteless communications."

But, continued Mr Gooden: "At last the penny has dropped and he is now contrite and remorseful."

"He is someone who needs help and he understands his predicament."

"The best solution would be a sentence involving rehabilitation."

The Recorder said Bateman's behaviour had gone on for some considerable time and he had received sexual gratification through contacting children.

A report indicated, said the Recorder, that Bateman was at high risk of re-offending.

"Only a custodial sentence can be imposed," he added.

A sexual harm prevention order was also imposed.

WASPI campaign continues...

WASPI campaigner Kay Clarke.

A MEMBER of the local WASPI action group has told THE GEM the campaign is still growing in momentum.

Kay Clarke, a regional administrator of WASPI from Barry, who is having to wait six years for her pension, said: "We have grown stronger by the day and now have over 140 local groups throughout the UK."

"We have the support of leading unions and many more organisations are coming on board, yet still the government tell us no one is waiting longer than 18 months for their pension!"

WASPI stands for 'Women Against State Pension Inequality'.

Many women paid tax and national insurance on the understanding that they would start getting a pension at the age of 60, only to face a wait of further years.

Kay added: "We are still ploughing ahead with the campaign."

"There was a passionate speech by Baroness Joan Bakewell in the House of Lords recently, when she spoke about the suffragettes marching in the streets, going on to say that women are still having to do so – they are the WASPI women who proudly wear the colours of the suffragettes in their fight for justice.

"Baroness Bakewell went on to say that WASPI acknowledges equality of pension age but despite having had five debates on the issue, the government will still not admit that they made a mistake when implementing these changes."

"That wrong decision has had a dire impact on 3.8 million women and their families."

"Their only failing was to have been unfortunate enough to have been born in the 1950s!"

For women interested in the campaign, the website is: www.waspi.co.uk.

ROTARY YOUTH SPEAKS IN BARRY

THE Rotary Club of Barry have sponsored the runners-up in the Area 4 final of the Youth Speaks competition, one of several competitions organised by the Rotary movement specifically designed to develop students' skills.

The Area 4 final was held on February 5 in Cardiff Golf Club and was hosted by the Rotary Club of Llanishen.

Runners-up in the intermediate section (11 – 14-year-olds) were the team from Ysgol Gymraeg Bro Morgannwg, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Barry, whose chosen topic was: '100 years after being given the vote, are women now equal?'

Their team was chaired by Megan Leonard, their speaker was Sara Jones and their vote of thanks was given by Fflur Bowen.

In line with national rules, all speakers had to answer a question from the audience to show their understanding of their chosen topic.

Judges were Phil McCaffery and Ifor Morgan from Cardiff Speakers Club and retired headteacher Mrs Pam James.

At the end of the evening the judges congratulated all participants saying that they had set some very high standards.

The next round of this competition is the district final, which will be held in March.

Mum's complaint to police after collision

A BARRY woman says she is very disappointed in how the police have handled a road traffic collision involving her daughter.

Layla Barber told THE GEM her daughter Charlie (19) was walking across the zebra crossing outside Barry train station at around 6.50pm on January 10 when she was in collision with a car – going over the bonnet of the vehicle.

Layla said: "The driver signalled 'sorry' and drove off."

"Charlie was aching the day after and we took her to A & E for a check-up."

"Thankfully she wasn't physically hurt but mentally she has suffered."

Charlie suffered from shock after the collision and is now anxious around traffic.

At the time someone noted the licence plate of the car and there were witnesses.

Layla went on: "They (the police) told me they had spoken to the witnesses and that their version of events matched the story of the driver."

Layla does not believe that the police have spoken to the witnesses, and is dissatisfied with how the case was handled.

"I have made a formal complaint to an inspector but I have heard nothing back."

"I really want to get justice for my daughter and I am disgusted at how the police have handled this."

Layla has also been in touch with her local MP Alun Cairns and hopes more witnesses might step forward.

A spokesman for South Wales Police said: "We received a report of a road traffic collision involving a woman and a car on Broad Street, Barry, shortly after 7pm on January 10."

"The incident was fully investigated, with officers receiving reports from both parties and witnesses regarding the extent of the collision and the events that followed."

"The driver of the vehicle has been given a verbal warning, and numerous attempts have been made to keep the victim updated."

AM supports campaign to beat bowel cancer

RIGHT: South Wales Central AM Andrew RT Davies launches the report with Lowri Griffiths from Bowel Cancer UK.

WELSH Assembly Members from across all parties have come together to stand up to bowel cancer.

A new report by Bowel Cancer UK and Beating Bowel Cancer has highlighted that 58 per cent of people diagnosed with bowel cancer survive for five years or more – and stressed the importance of early diagnosis.

While nearly everyone diagnosed at stage one of the disease survives, this drops significantly at stages three and four.

The Welsh Government's target waiting time for screening is eight weeks, yet over 1,800 people are waiting longer than this – with almost 1,000 waiting over 14 weeks.

Last week an event was held at the Senedd to launch the report, co-sponsored by South Wales Central AM Andrew RT Davies, Caerphilly AM Hefin David and north Wales AM Mandy Jones.

Bowel cancer is an issue close to the hearts of Assembly Members, with South Wales East AM Stefan Lewis recently being diagnosed with the disease.

Sam Gould – a former Assembly staffer – passed away last year aged just 33 as a result of bowel cancer. Despite his illness, Sam worked tirelessly to campaign for better diagnosis in Wales.

Speaking at the event Mr Davies paid tribute to Sam for his courage in promoting the cause, and said he would continue to push for shorter waiting times for bowel cancer tests.

Mr Davies said: "Sadly, the Assembly knows all too well the challenges bowel cancer brings to sufferers and their friends, families and colleagues – so it's important to all come together and campaign for better treatments."

"I was therefore pleased to co-sponsor the event alongside Hefin and Mandy, as Bowel Cancer UK and Beating Bowel Cancer launch their report."

"While nearly all those diagnosed early make a full recovery, survival rates are far lower for those at stages three and four – so early diagnosis is key."

"We need to reduce waiting times for screening tests – and this has to be a cross-party effort."

"Sam showed immense bravery campaigning for this while he was suffering from the disease and we have a duty to him to carry on his fine work in his memory."

RESERVISTS AND CADETS COMMENDED FOR 'VERY BEST DEDICATION AND COMMITMENT'

THE Queen's representative for South Glamorgan believes Reservists and Cadets have 'the very best dedication and commitment' and has honoured their work in local communities.

Lord Lieutenant Mrs Morfudd Meredith was speaking at her annual awards ceremony recently at which she singled out 11 members of the Armed Forces community for their outstanding achievements over the last year.

She said: "Tonight presents the opportunity to recognise the excellent work of the Reserve Forces and Cadets in South Glamorgan. The Reserve Forces have made a huge contribution worldwide over the past year, they are a part of our community and we are immensely proud of them. "We are all fiercely proud of your achievements and you deserve the greatest credit for your accomplishments."

"The cadets are inspirational organisations. The programme of military themed training, youth work, civilian qualifications and community work assists young people to develop."

progress and prepare for their future careers and adulthood. These young people are our future and their cadet experiences help them realise their full potential. They are role models for other young people."

Staff Sergeant Lee Hutchinson from 580 (Glamorgan) Transport Squadron Royal Logistic Corps has ensured the fitness of more than 20 children in his local area.

He volunteers as a coach at Bridgend Amateur Boxing Club and his dedication was recognised with the Lord Lieutenant's Certificate of Meritorious Service.

The same award was also presented to Lieutenant Jennifer Green from Dyfed and Glamorgan Army Cadet Force (ACF), who started with no previous military experience to thrive at Barry Detachment, where she has raised more than £13,000 for charity and led the development of young people.

Dyfed and Glamorgan ACF's Sergeant Major Instructor Stephen Thorne and No 1 Welsh Wing RAF Air Cadets' Flight Sergeant Lisa Shires from Barry also received the Lord-Lieutenant's Certificate of Meritorious Service for their effort and expertise invested in future generations.

There were also three

Lord-Lieutenant's Cadets appointed to the prestigious role for 2018.

They include 17-year-old pair Cadet Regimental Sergeant Major Bradley Cartwright from Cardiff and Cadet Sergeant Rhys Horton from Barry, as well as 16-year-old Able Cadet Matthew Staite from Penarth Sea Cadet Corps.

The trio have excelled in areas ranging from engineering to Duke of Edinburgh's Awards and fundraising for charity.

Their achievements have stood them in good stead to join the Lord Lieutenant at official engagements, such as Royal visits and Remembrance services as the country marks the centenary of the First World War's end.

Almost 100 people attended the event at Ty Walter Cleall in Cardiff, which is a special occasion in the calendar of the organisers, the Reserve Forces' and Cadets' Association (RFCA) for Wales.

Colonel Nick Beard, chief executive of RFCA for Wales, said: "There are more than 2,200 Reservists in Wales, who are vital and valued members of the Defence family. This helps them gain transferable skills to boost their civilian lives."

"The strength of the Armed Forces community is further strengthened by the 4,400 Cadets in Wales and the 1,200 volunteers."

Dyfed and Glamorgan ACF's Cadet Sergeant Major William Peach, No 1 Welsh Wing RAF Air Cadets' Flight Sergeant Natasha Gill from Barry and No 3 Welsh Wing RAF Air Cadets' Flight Sergeant Benjamin Hibbs were presented with a certificate for serving as Lord Lieutenant's Cadets in 2017.

Say hello to the constellations of summer

ALTHOUGH this month marks the end of the winter constellations, it's still possible to locate Orion, Taurus and Canis Major, containing Sirius, the brightest star in the sky, although they are drawing nearer to the western horizon.

At the same time, we say hello to the summer constellations, Cygnus, and Lyra. This month, they are appearing just above the northern horizon, but will soon rise high enough for further attention.

Overhead, the Milky Way arm of our galaxy rises over the southern horizon and sets on the northern horizon. Ursa Major is almost overhead and the two pointers of The Plough point towards the Pole Star, which sits roughly half way towards the northern horizon.

Well placed now, about half way from the southern horizon and overhead, is Leo the Lion. It is one of the brightest of the zodiacal constellations.

To locate it, instead of looking for a lion, look for a backwards-facing question mark. The bottom star is also one of the brightest stars in the sky and is known as Regulus.

Leo also contains several reasonably bright galaxies, for anyone using a telescope.

For those of you who find it difficult to locate objects, the almost full Moon comes to the rescue on the morning of March 1, because early risers will see the bright star Regulus being occulted (hidden) by the Moon. Look from about 5.50 am.

The Moon also lies near the planets Mercury and Venus in the early evening of the 18th. On the 21st, it is close to two open clusters, the Pleiades and Hyades in Taurus.

Once again, the spectacle of two full Moons this month take place on March 2 and 31 and, for those of you who long for lighter nights, British Summer Time begins March 25.

Check Barry Astronomical Society's website for dates when we will be observing, (weather permitting) in Porthkerry Park, <http://www.barryastronomical.wordpress.com>

PENSIONERS' TRIP TO PORTHCAWL

ON February 16, the Rhose Pensioners Friday Club enjoyed a coach trip to Porthcawl for a restaurant meal of fish and chips followed by a trip to the shopping outlet in Sarn.

February is always a quiet month after the celebrations in December, so the members really enjoyed the chance to get out and about. They wish to convey their grateful thanks to The Commission Foundation Wales, who generously donated towards the cost of the trip.

Our club is open to anyone (male or female) who would like to socialise for a few hours on any Friday afternoon from 2.30pm-4pm. We have a cup of tea and a biscuit, play bingo, and generally chat.

You don't have to be a pensioner, just come along to the community centre in Stewart Road and see if it would suit you.

CARDIFF AIRPORT REPORTS A HALF TERM SURGE IN PASSENGERS

THE first few days of the February half term holidays are off to a flying start at Cardiff Airport with approximately 22,000 customers expected this week.

Trends in passenger travel since the start of the week showed that customers are using Wales' national airport as the departure point to reach far-flung, long haul destinations with KLM, using Amsterdam Schiphol as the connecting hub.

Popular choices include Asia, north America, the Middle East, Africa and China.

Some people have headed for European ski resorts, and a proportion of passengers have headed for the sunshine of southern Europe.

Debra Barber, CEO of Cardiff Airport, said: "We enjoy welcoming excited passengers as they fly off for a half term break or to visit friends and family."

"It's interesting to see the trends in our passengers' travel habits and the popular routes at this time of year.

"It's been an exciting start to the year, with passenger growth and terminal developments well under way."

"Following what was a strong start to the year with nine per cent growth for January and over 1.473 million passengers having flown over the last 12 months, Wales' national airport is gearing up for a busy year ahead."

"As the country's national airport, we're very passionate about delivering a warm Welsh welcome to visitors on arrival to Wales, with international passengers flying in daily with KLM and even more expected when the Qatar Airways' service starts in May."

"Cardiff Airport is proudly flying the flag for Wales every day of the year."

Swansea Building Society launches a new account

SWANSEA Building Society has recently launched a new savings account for new and existing members in Wales following demand from its young adult customers for a product that will help them save for a significant life purchase, such as a first home.

Launched on February 1, the First Adult Saver account has been created by the Society specifically for customers aged from 18 to and including 30-year-olds.

According to the Halifax First Time Buyer Review 2017, the average age of a first time buyer in the UK is 30, which is up from 29 in 2011.

Swansea Building Society believes that limiting the age to 30 on its new First Adult Saver account will significantly help those saving for their first home.

The review also revealed that the average house price in Wales in 2016 was £133,730. The average mortgage was £116,000, with the average deposit £17,550.

The First Adult Saver account limits the maximum balance across all accounts held to £30,000, and the savings account has a competitive rate (1.25 per cent).

Withdrawals from the account are limited to three per year and are subject to seven days' notice, with no access allowed prior to this.

Alun Williams, chief executive of Swansea Building Society, said: "We are extremely pleased to have launched our new First Adult Saver account, which has been specially designed to meet the needs of 18 to 30 year olds. The new product comes following feedback from the front line branch staff regarding maturing Swansea Building Society children's accounts, as well as research showing the clear need for young adults to have assistance with saving for major life purchases or events, like a first home."

NFU county conference

DR TIM RENDER, director for Environment and Rural Affairs at Welsh Government, will be guest speaker at the Glamorgan NFU Cymru County Conference on Monday, February 26 at St Mary's Golf Club, Pencoed.

Hot beef rolls will be served from 7pm, with the meeting beginning at 7.30pm prompt. As part of his presentation, Tim will discuss Welsh Government's position on Brexit and its priorities ahead of March 2019 and beyond.

Abi Reader, Glamorgan NFU Cymru county chair said: "We are most grateful to Tim for agreeing to come and speak at the conference and also to HSBC bank for sponsoring the event."

"This is a great opportunity for members to get an insight into the work of the Welsh Government ahead of Brexit. I hope we will get a good turnout of local NFU Cymru members. Please also encourage your friends and neighbours to come along."

The First Step to a Better Smile

The origins of the Ordnance Survey

ON February 8 Sully U3A were fortunate enough to be entertained by Chris Higley about 'Maps of Wales and Maps of War'.

The origins of the Ordnance Survey lie in the aftermath of the Jacobite rising of 1745, which was finally defeated by forces loyal to the government at the Battle of Culloden in 1746; when it was realised that the British Army did not have a good map of the British Isles.

William Roy was largely responsible for the British share of the work of the Principal Triangulation of Great Britain between 1783 and 1853, and led to the creation of the Ordnance Survey itself. In 1801 the first one-inch-to-the-mile map was published and by 1840 the one-inch survey had covered all of Wales.

After a fire in the Tower of London in 1841, the headquarters of the Ordnance Survey was moved to Southampton, and in 1855 the Board of Ordnance was abolished and the Ordnance Survey was placed under the War Office together with the Topographical Survey and the Depot of Military Knowledge and eventually in 1870 it was transferred to the Office of Works.

During World War One, the Ordnance Survey was involved in preparing maps of France and Belgium and then during World War Two, many more maps were created, including 1:40,000 map of Antwerp, Belgium.

A number of historical Ordnance Survey maps of local areas to south Wales and Antwerp, Belgium were on show for all to view.

We look forward to our next presentation on March 8 at the Old School in Sully.

Bro Radio launches search for 'supermum'

BRO RADIO, the local radio station for the Vale of Glamorgan, has launched a search for the most deserving or unsung Mum in the Vale in partnership with The Glenbrook Inn.

The Glenbrook Inn has been a vital part of the local community since 1982, serving their famous Sunday carvery every weekend and hosting a range of events for all the family throughout the year.

Teaming up with the local family restaurant, the station is looking to give back to a Vale-based Mum who has had a tough 12 months, or who has supported or given back to their local community.

Owner of The Glenbrook Inn, Liam O'Leary said: "Working with Bro Radio is a great way for us to give back to the local people who have supported us over the years. We've already heard from so many Mums who are doing great things in the community and hope we can give them a Mother's day to remember."

If you know a deserving Vale-based Mum, then Bro Radio and The Glenbrook Inn would like to hear from you.

Submit their details via broradio.fm for your chance to win a three course Sunday lunch on Mothering Sunday for up to four people including a drink.

All nominees must be based in the Vale and entry closes at 5pm on Friday, March 2.

Bridge club results

THE results for the Vale of Glamorgan bridge club for February 19 are as follow.

First, Mia Deschepper and Mike Pownall 61.25 per cent. Second, Mary Lougher and Joan Bird 57.92 per cent. Third, Kevin Maddox and Mike Best 57.50 per cent.

VALE AM PRAISES WORK OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE CHARITY

RIGHT:
Jane Hutt AM with Helen Jones and Sarah Duddridge at Atal y Fro.

FOLLOWING the 40th anniversary of Welsh Women's Aid, former co-ordinator Jane Hutt AM visited Atal y Fro in Barry to congratulate the pioneering charity in their work to tackle violence against women in the Vale of Glamorgan.

Jane Hutt said: "Atal y Fro provides pioneering domestic abuse services in the Vale but their aim has also been 'to prevent' violence against women. "The Welsh Government has funded a Wales-wide project led by Atal y Fro to support families to help prevent domestic abuse at times of stress and vulnerability.

"I was glad to visit and welcome new director Helen Jones to her post at Atal y Fro. "As we approach International Women's Day on March 8, I hope a spotlight will shine on the work we need to do to prevent violence against women in Wales and the world."

GLORIOUS BIGSWEIR FOR THE PENARTH RAMBLERS

JOY from Penarth and District Ramblers played host to a group of 11 walkers at Bigsweir in glorious weather conditions.

They made their way uphill along the ancient Offa's Dyke Path which dates to 780AD and on leaving the wood, there were vast amounts of damage visible in the churned up fields caused by wild boar.

After a morning break in the shelter of trees to avoid the cool breeze, a further climb through Highbury Wood led to a descent past snowdrops and a glorious view of the Penallt Viaduct, which carried the Wye Valley Railway line from England into Wales in the valley below.

A steep, slippery descent led them through Lower Redbrook for the next climb up through muddy wet tracks in Forge Wood and a smattering of snowflakes on the journey up to Newland.

All Saints Church, also known as The Cathedral of the Forest, provided shelter for the lunch break, with a chance to share its history dating back to 1200. Its beautiful treasures included a 1ft-high brass engraving known as the 'Miner's Brass,' showing a Forest of Dean miner with a candle in his mouth, a pickaxe in hand and a hod on his back.

Passing the almshouses adjacent to the church, following a muddy, sunken track uphill to Rookery Lane, there were a few more snow flurries.

It led to open views of the Herefordshire countryside and hills in the distance, before a series of fields and sunken lanes led them back into woodland for the descent back to the start.

In contrast, William was not so lucky for his mid-week local walk from Porthkerry Country Park on a wet and cold morning.

Four companions turned up and they set off via the Wales Coast Path, uphill through the old Iron Age Bulwarks hillfort to Porthkerry Caravan Park.

Continuing their journey along the cliff-top, there was a pause at the southernmost tip of mainland Wales, before heading up through Rhooose village to circumnavigate the perimeter of Cardiff Airport in order to seek out shelter under a road bridge from the rain for morning break.

Heading downhill to cross the River Kenson stone bridge, the Nant Llancarfan Valley was flooded, so a detour by road eventually brought them to Pancross Farm and down into Llancarfan.

Seeking shelter at St Cadoc's Church, the group saw its glorious array of medieval wall paintings, covered by centuries of lime washing following the break with the Roman Catholic Church by King Henry VIII, after which all traces of the Catholic religion were banned.

Heading along the road to Pen-Onn and descending the rickety bridge over the River Waycock, sodden paths through the wood led up to soggy fields and into Penmark.

The walkers made their way by road, track and field to Blackton Farm and over the A4226 to follow the Whitelands Brook downhill, where a last ascent over West Ridge led them back into Porthkerry Park.

On February 24, meet at 9am at Cogan for a seven-mile moderate walk at Moel Penderyn; contact Clive on 029 2065 4156.

To follow the group, log onto www.penarthramblers.wordpress.com or Facebook. Programmes and membership advice can be obtained from Pam on 029 2025 5102.

CAVC students win medals in IT finals

STUDENTS from Cardiff and Vale College have won a gold, three silver and three bronze medals in the Skills Competition Wales IT finals.

The learners were competing against students from across Wales in the contest which feeds into the UK Skills Show and WorldSkills contests.

In the Coding Skills finals, students had to focus on developing software, debugging, testing codes and creating new applications.

They were also required to program a Lego Mindstorms robot. Jake Steen (18) from Barry won silver, while Ellis Brown (18) from Cowbridge, took the bronze.

Matthew Dean (18) from Cardiff won silver in Network Security and Kyle Woodward (18) from Cardiff won bronze. The contest involved securing network devices and restricting access of users by employing various policies, testing competitors' configuration and application skills.

Tomek Pawelek (21) from Cardiff won gold and Morgan Whitehead (17) also from Cardiff, won silver in the IT Support Technician competition, where their ability to configure IT hardware and software to meet customer requirements was tested.

Cardiff and Vale College deputy principal Sharon James said: "Congratulations and a massive well done to our IT learners for doing so well in the finals. Seven medals is quite an achievement and shows how their hard work and determination has paid off."

"Staff from the college's IT department have worked tirelessly to train these competitors, enabling them to compete to such a high standard, so I thank them for their effort and commitment. This impressive haul of medals is a testament to that."

Bee colonies are getting ready for warmer weather

News from the Fonmon Apiary
by Harold Williams

SIGNS of spring are everywhere, snowdrops and catkins.

Bulbs are also beginning to poke up through the soil.

However! Weather conditions are such of late that the bees are not able to venture out just yet to collect the pollen on offer from these early providers.

Nonetheless, the days are lengthening and the bees are aware of this. The queens are stepping up their egg-laying activity to keep the colony viable.

The bees that have come through the winter are now some five months old (that is old for a worker bee) and they will progressively die off.

It is only worker bees (females) and the queen that inhabit the hive for the winter period, no males are required.

So spring is just around the corner, the eggs laid by the queen will become new bees and they will take at least three weeks to become fully functioning foragers.

It is the workers (the ladies) who do all the organising and foraging in a honeybee colony so female eggs, not male eggs, are given priority. Come April and May the male bee (drone) will begin to show.

To meet the demands of the winter period the workers have spent many hours collecting pollen and nectar (it is nectar that is collected, not honey: the bees change nectar into honey).

All this work is not only to provide for the colony's daily needs, but to put by the food that will be required by the winter bees.

Shorter days will kick in, accompanied by lower temperatures and a reduction in flowers. Honeybees do not hibernate! But winter conditions can be such that external activity is not an option, hence there is a requirement for in-house food supplies.

The temperature of the hive is regulated by the bees at all times of the year. Provided that adequate stores are available there is a good chance that the colony will come through, whatever winter can throw at them.

Pollinators of all kinds now face extinction thanks to the activities of homo sapiens (our good selves). Perhaps we should pay attention to the following quote:

"The wildlife of the world is not ours to dispose of as we please. We do but have it in trust for those who are to follow."

Council officers show racism the red card

THE Vale of Glamorgan Council Leader John Thomas and managing director Rob Thomas attended a 'Show Racism the Red Card' event for All Saints' Primary School at Jenner Park.

Organised in partnership with the council, education worker and former Wales international footballer Steve Jenkins delivered a morning workshop to the young people, educating them on the topic of racism through interactive activities and discussions.

Pupils had been asked to prepare for an anti-racism press conference, which involved creating a newspaper name and researching prejudice in sport and wider society.

They read newspapers and online blogs to see how they were written and then had to produce an article of their own.

Barry Town United manager Gavin Chesterfield, assistant manager Mike Cosslett and player Jordan Cottrell also attended the event, taking part in the press conference and were joined by Vale of Glamorgan Mayor Janice Charles.

Every pupil received a match ticket for a Barry Town United FC match in the Welsh Premier League.

Cllr Thomas said: "I was delighted to attend such an important event, in which the issues of racism and discrimination were highlighted to children in a thoughtful and engaging way."

"As a council, we are committed to promoting equality and diversity and recognise the importance of championing that message to the wider community. Events such as this play a key part in achieving that."

Barry Men's Forum gets green fingered

MEMBERS of Barry Men's Forum were treated by a representative from the National Botanic Garden of Wales, Louise Austin, to an illustrated talk on the history of Middleton Hall and its gardens at Llanarthney, Carmarthenshire.

It started from its earliest days when the land was acquired by the Middleton family, who made their wealth from trading in shipping and were responsible for conveying spices, such as nutmeg, to many European ports.

The Middletons were co-founders of the East India Company but were involved in a business collapse in the early part of the 18th century. What was left of the business was acquired by William Paxton, from Edinburgh, for £40,000. The estate consisted of 568 acres, including the hall and grounds. He engaged an architect, Samuel Pepys Cockerell, and a landscape designer, Samuel Lapidge, who was a successor to 'Capability' Brown to develop the hall and gardens creating ornamental gardens, waterfalls and lakes.

Unfortunately, by the mid 19th century, the hall and gardens fell into a slow decline which culminated in the destruction by fire of the hall in 1931, followed in 1934 by the draining of the necklace of ornamental lakes.

The now derelict site was rediscovered in the mid 1980s and work was soon started after purchase to develop the land now known as the National Botanical Garden of Wales.

Barry Men's Forum meets every Thursday at 9.45am at Holy Trinity Church Hall and the next speaker will be Dean Powell speaking on the life of Dr William Price, eminent surgeon and a pioneer of cremation. For further information, call Mac Tanner on 01446 743455.

Celebrating books and all things Welsh!

TWO High Street businesses will be getting together to celebrate and promote World Book Day and St David's Day on March 1.

Giggles Toyshop and Homemade Wales, both of whom work with The Welsh Books Council in supplying Welsh medium and Welsh themed books on High Street, Barry, will be celebrating the fact that both occasions fall on the same day.

There will be promotions in store and both businesses will be inviting children dressed as either their favourite character from literature or dressed in Welsh national costume to visit their stores on March 1 and receive a prize.

Fay Blakeley, of Council, it seems the Homemade Wales, perfect opportunity for us explained: "With both to celebrate books and all our businesses working things Welsh with the Welsh Books readers of all ages."

Fay Blakeley of Homemade Wales and Jill Matthews of Giggles.

Join Rhod on a trek to Nepal for Velindre

Rhod Gilbert in Peru – in February next year he plans a trek in Nepal.

FOLLOWING a very successful trek through Peru to the lost Inca city of Machu Picchu last September, comedian Rhod Gilbert will once again be pulling on his trekking boots as he prepares for his next challenge, a five day hike through the Helambu region of Nepal – and you could join him!

Taking place in February 2019, the stunning ancient kingdom of Nepal is home to some of the world's highest mountains.

The trek will once again raise funds for Wales' premier cancer centre, Velindre where Rhod is a patron.

He said: "Following hugely successful treks up Mount Kilimanjaro, through Patagonia and to Machu Picchu in Peru, I am now preparing for my next challenge: a five day hike through the Helambu region of Nepal.

"So in a year's time on February 9, I'll once again be leading a trek in aid of Velindre Cancer Centre – and you can join me.

"Collectively, we have managed to raise over a million pounds so far and we've had an absolute ball along the way. A hard ball, but a ball is a ball, that's what I always say. If I can do it, anyone can!"

For further information on this epic challenge go to Velindre Fundraising website at: www.velindrefundraising.com/events/nepal-trek-09-feb-2019.

If you wish to join Rhod and register for this event email info@velindrefundraising.com. Minimum sponsorship for this trip is £4,000, and a non-refundable booking deposit of £200 will secure your place.

The charm of Nepal is that it is largely without roads, and access is limited to ancient trails linking isolated villages where life and customs have changed little over centuries. Only on foot can you discover the true nature of the country.

The trek through the foothills of Helambu is stunningly picturesque with the peaks of the Jugal and Langtang Himals offering a very impressive backdrop to what is a charmingly unspoilt and untrekked area.

Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges?

CAN YOU OFFER RUPERT A HOME?

RUPERT is a five-month-old crossbreed, who is very bright and learns commands very quickly, so training classes will be essential for him to reach his full potential.

He will need to live with another compatible dog already in the home to help him settle into a new environment, is very playful and loves his toys.

Rupert can live with children of 14 years and over who are used to dogs. New owners will need to be around during the day to help with his house training and he does enjoy both human and dog company.

He has a 'very big personality'.

If you would like to know more about Rupert, contact Dogs Trust Bridgend on 01656 725219 or call into the centre at Court Colman CF31 4NG. You can also visit the website at www.dogstrust.org.uk.

Consultation aims to find a parliament that works for Wales – plan for more AMs

PEOPLE across Wales are being encouraged to respond to new proposals to 'reshape Welsh democracy' published by the Assembly Commission recently.

The consultation has been drawn up in anticipation of new powers given to the Assembly in the Wales Act 2017. The Act gives the Assembly the power to make decisions in relation to the institution's size and how members are elected.

Last week, the Assembly voted in favour of the commission's decision to consult on the recommendations of the Expert Panel's report on Assembly Electoral Reform, 'A Parliament that Works for Wales'.

Following a detailed analysis of evidence, the panel recommended that the Assembly needs between 20 and 30 additional members elected through a more proportional electoral system with diversity at its heart. It also recommended lowering the minimum voting age for National Assembly elections to include 16 and 17-year-olds.

The consultation on the recommendations will run from February 12 for an eight-week period ending on April 6.

In addition to the recommendations made by the Expert Panel on Assembly Electoral Reform, the consultation also includes other potential changes to who can vote in Assembly elections and who can be an Assembly Member, as well as changes to the law relating to electoral administration and the Assembly's internal arrangements.

The commission has already consulted on changing the Assembly's name, and as a result of that consultation the name will be changed to Welsh Parliament.

The Llywydd, Elin Jones AM said: "The Wales Act 2017 marks the start of a new phase of devolution in Wales, giving us the opportunity to make profound changes to our legislature. We now have the opportunity to forge the national parliament that the people of Wales deserve to champion their interests.

"This consultation is the beginning of a conversation with the people and communities of Wales about the institution that they want their Welsh Parliament to be. I look forward to hearing their views."

There are a number of ways that people can let the Assembly Commission know what they think about the potential reforms:

Visit the consultation website at www.assembly.wales/futuresenedd, where they will find the full consultation document and an easy read version of the consultation document. They can either email your completed consultation form to AssemblyCommission.Consultations@assembly.wales, or post it to Freepost, National Assembly for Wales.

Visit the consultation microsite at www.futuresenedd.wales, and fill in an online survey. People can choose whether to answer questions on all of the proposals, or just the ones which interest them most.

Further information about the consultation and the regional events, including how to take part, will be available on the consultation website over the coming weeks.

CREU senedd i Gymru
MAE pobl ledled Cymru yn cael eu hannog i ymateb i gynigion newydd i ail-lunio democratieth Gymreig a gyhoeddiir gan Gomisiwn y Cynulliad heddiw.

Lluniwyd yr ymgynghoriad wrth ragweld pwerau newydd a roddwyd i'r Cynulliad yn Neddf Cymru 2017. Mae'r Ddeddf yn rhoi'r pŵer i'r Cynulliad wneud penderfyniadau mewn perthynas â maint y sefydliad a sut mae Aelodau'n cael eu hethol.

Yr wythnos diwethaf, pleidleisiodd y Cynulliad o blaid penderfyniad y Comisiwn i ymgynghori ar argymhellion adroddiad y Panel Arbenigol ar Ddiwygio Etholiadol y Cynulliad, 'Senedd sy'n Gweithio i Gymru'.

Yn dilyn dadansoddiad manwl o'r dystiolaeth, argymhellodd y Panel fod angen rhwng 20 a 30 o Aelodau ychwanegol ar y Cynulliad, wedi'u hethol trwy system etholiadol fwy cyfrannol gydag amrywiaeth wrth ei gwraidd. Mae'r panel hefyd yn argymhell y dydd gostwng yr oedran pleidleisio isaf ar gyfer etholiadau'r Cynulliad Cenedlaethol i gynnwys pobl ifanc un ar bymtheg a dwy ar bymtheg oed.

Bydd yr ymgynghoriad ar yr argymhellion yn rhedeg o Chwefror 12 am gyfnod o wyth wythnos, gan ddod i ben ar Ebrill 6.

Yn ogystal ag argymhellion y Panel Arbenigol ar Ddiwygio Etholiadol y Cynulliad, mae'r ymgynghoriad yn cynnwys diwygiadau posibl eraill o ran pwy all bleidleisio yn etholiadau'r Cynulliad, pwy sy'n cael bod yn Aelod o'r Cynulliad, a newidiadau i'r gyfraith yn ymwneud â gweinyddiaeth etholiadol a threfniadau mewnol y Cynulliad.

Mae'r Comisiwn eisoes wedi ymgynghori ar newid enw'r Cynulliad, ac o ganlyniad i'r ymgynghoriad hwnnw bydd yr enw'n newid i Senedd Cymru.

Meddai'r Llywydd, Elin Jones AC: "Mae Deddf Cymru 2017 yn nodi dechrau cyfnod newydd o ddatganioli yng Nghymru, gan roi cyfle inni wneud newidiadau pellgyrhaeddol i'n deddfwria. Mae gennym gyfle nawr i greu'r senedd genedlaethol y mae pobl Cymru'n haeddu ei chael i fod yn llais drostyt.

"Dyma ddechrau sgwrs gyda phobl a chymunedau Cymru am y math o sefydliad y maen nhw am i'w Senedd Cymru fod. Edrychaf ymlaen at glywed eu barn."

Mae yna nifer o ffyrdd y gall pobl roi eu barn i Gomisiwn y Cynulliad am y diwygiadau posib:

Mynd i wefan yr ymgynghoriad www.cynulliad.cymru/seneddydyfodol lle ceir y dogfen ymgynghori lawn a fersiwn hawdd ei darllen o'r ddogfen ymgynghori.

Mynd i ficrowefan yr ymgynghoriad www.seneddydyfodol.cymru a llenwi arolwg ar-lein. Gallant ddewis ateb y cwestiynau am bob cynnig, ynteu dim ond y rhai sydd o'r diddordeb mwyaf iddynt.

Ar ôl llenwi'r ffurflen ymateb i'r ymgynghoriad, gallant eu hanfon at Comisiwn y Cynulliad. Ymgynghori@cynulliad.cymru neu AssemblyCommission.Consultations@assembly.wales, neu gallwch ei phostio atom yn Rhadbost (Freepost), Cynulliad Cenedlaethol Cymru.

Solar, so good at Barry Comprehensive School

Year-7 pupils with their solar systems.

BARRY Comprehensive School's year-7 pupils were asked to produce a piece of homework depicting the Solar System, a topic they had been studying as part of the science curriculum.

The young scientists were asked to produce their own 'interpretations' of the Solar System from what they have learnt so far.

More than 40 pieces of work were produced and the department was inundated with various versions of the Solar System. Diagrams and models in one, two and three dimensions, and even a pixellated version made from Lego, were brought in. AC

Marie Curie Hospice needs volunteers

THE Marie Curie Cardiff and Vale Hospice at Holme Towers, Penarth, is appealing for volunteers to give two hours of their time to hand out the charity's iconic daffodil pins in the local community, in return for donations.

The charity is hoping to get more people than ever wearing the daffodil pin during its annual fundraiser – the Great Daffodil Appeal.

The charity's local fundraising group is hosting collections in Cowbridge from Saturday, February 24 until Saturday, March 3.

The money raised will help Marie Curie be there for more people living with a terminal illness, providing them and their loved ones with vital nursing care and support.

Marie Curie community fundraiser for Cardiff and the Vale, Hannah Leckie, said: "Volunteering to collect donations in return for daffodil pins is a fun and easy way to get involved in the local community.

"You can collect with a friend or loved ones and know that you are helping Marie Curie be there when we are needed most."

Those wishing to volunteer an hour of their time can contact local organiser Mrs Roberts on 01446 771159.

'Women's Voices' at U3A

ON the anniversary of the Representation of People Act in 1918, when women over 30 and 'of property' achieved the right to vote, David Maddox gave a talk to Barry U3A on 'Women's Voices in the Valleys from 1900 to 1914'.

His talk did not centre on the fight for the right to vote, as women in the Valleys at that time usually had much more pressing issues on their minds.

Their menfolk mostly worked down the mines and it was the woman's job to ensure that they had a good meal and a bath to come home to.

In reality, a woman's role was to make a home for others, where families of 12 were not uncommon.

This was demanding and statistics showed the death rates for women at that time were much higher than for men. The constant childbearing and continuous housework took their toll.

Around 20 per cent of women worked outside the home, sometimes even at the pits themselves. Working as a shop assistant was very popular even though the pay was usually less, and a few women had jobs as 'white blouse girls', meaning they were clerical workers.

The major employment for women at that time was in domestic service. Most girls were given 'training' in such domestic activities as washing, ironing and cooking in preparation for leaving home at around the age of 14. Many took jobs away from the Valleys or outside Wales.

Life was not all drudgery, however, and we should not think that women did not have some fun. While middle class women joined campaigns for the Suffragists, the vast majority of women looked for more entertaining activities.

Some became involved in the Temperance or Religious Revival movements, because these offered the chance to belong to a choir and put on concerts.

Women also enjoyed going to theatres, of which there were many. There was even roller skating and Sunday outings to Barry or Porthcawl.

If you are no longer in full time employment or raising a family, then you are in your third age and new members are very welcome.

The next meeting takes place on Monday, March 5 at 2pm in Bethel Baptist Church Hall, Harbour Road on the roundabout in Park Crescent. Contact Christine on 01446 701537.

The Potted Gardener with Sara Milne Ever thought of growing veggies in garden pots?

ABOVE: Most people think you need an allotment or a space in your garden to grow vegetables, but that isn't necessarily the case.

If you have ever thought about growing vegetables in pots, now is the time to give it a go!

There is a huge variety of vegetables that can be grown in containers or smaller spaces to make 'growing your own' accessible to everyone. Some of the best veg to grow are beetroot, broad beans, carrots, dwarf French beans, herbs, peas, potatoes, radishes, rocket, runner beans, chillies and peppers, salad leaves, salad onions, salad turnips and tomatoes.

It's just a question of right veg, right sized pot.

Choose large deep pots to grow root vegetables such as potatoes and carrots, and shallower ones for beetroot and onions.

Vigorous growing veg such as courgettes, tomatoes and beans need large pots filled with good compost to accommodate their roots. Lettuce and herbs can be grown in window boxes.

Containers can dry out very quickly so need frequent watering. Beware of over-watering as well.

The way to test if you've got it right is to put a finger in the compost – if it's slightly moist just below the surface it's spot on.

Use compost specially designed for containers as it will hold onto water better and have the extra nutrients added to get your plants off to a good start.

Things to look out for when choosing the right one are soil and loam-based composts, extra nutrients, plant food and water-retaining granules. Most multi-purpose composts are fine, or a soil-based compost such as John Innes No3.

For the greatest choice of plants, grow from seed, but if you don't mind too much about the variety, buy ready grown plants or plug plants from garden centres or mail-order suppliers. If growing from seed, check the instructions on the packet.

Seed sowing time may vary depending on the crop but the main growing season for vegetables is from early spring to autumn.

Don't forget to feed your crops on a regular basis. Pot grown veg run out of nutrients due to the limited amount of soil they have to grow in, so a feed of general-purpose liquid fertiliser should be applied every couple of weeks.

Finally, make sure you position your pots so they are in the best location for their growing needs. Most vegetable plants like lots of sun, so it's important to site your containers where they will receive a good few hours of direct light a day. South or west facing locations are the best.

Climbers such as beans or peas can't cope with windy or exposed spaces, so a sheltered spot suits them best against walls or fences.

If pots and containers are just part of your outside space then here are some gardening tips for this month from the RHS (Royal Horticultural Society)...

Sow vegetable seeds and plant potatoes; protect new spring shoots from slugs; plant summer-flowering bulbs; feed containers with fresh compost; mow the lawn on dry days (if needed).

Cut back winter shrubs and keep your eyes peeled for weeds starting to come through; start conserving water, re-pot houseplants and prune bush and climbing roses.

Out & About with The GEM

Del Toro's The Shape of Water is a gloriously Gothic and gorgeous fairytale...

GUILLERMO Del Toro's is one of cinema's more idiosyncratic voices – after all, he's able to dip his toe both in the big-budget world with films like Pacific Rim and Hellboy, while also making films in his native language that transcend language in the likes of Pan's Labyrinth and The Devil's Backbone.

His latest film would be something of a hard sell without knowing he was behind it. In The Shape of Water, we meet Elisa (Sally Hawkins), a mute woman who works as a cleaner at a government facility.

When they take possession of an individual who is part-man, part-sea creature, overseen by government agent Strickland (Michael Shannon) and Dr Hoffstetter (Michael Stuhlbarg), Elisa begins to form a relationship with the creature.

As their relationship develops and she sees the cruelty to which he is exposed she, along with her neighbour Giles (Richard Jenkins) and co-worker Zelda (Octavia Spencer) vow to break the creature out, a task that is easier said than done...

The set up of The Shape of Water is one that feels a little familiar – there are strains of E.T. in the plot, to name but one – but don't let that fool you into thinking that this is a film that treads gently through familiarity.

Instead, Guillermo Del Toro crafts a gloriously Gothic and visually gorgeous fairytale of a film, a tale that may kick off in genre mode but soon gives way to universal truths.

To use a water analogy, there is far more going on beneath the surface of this film – every character feels rounded and purposeful, elemental to the story, while the setting of the film (in the Cold War paranoia of the 1960s) lends it that sense of fear of the unknown, with the Americans determined not to let the creature fall into the hands of the Russians.

Yet amidst this dark and sombre mood, Del

Toro finds plenty of beauty amidst the relationships of the characters and their lives.

There are some beautifully-realised sequences in this (a bathroom flooding that makes you care not a jot for the water damage that will certainly ensue, a song-and-dance sequence captured with elan), the director focusing on the decaying beauty that pervades the film, inserting the occasional burst of horror while the relationships themselves are sketched with aplomb.

There's the budding romance between Elisa and the creature, played so delicately and gently with simple grace notes conveying far more than any dialogue could.

There is Elisa's relationship with her neighbour Giles (a sensational Richard Jenkins) who is a social and professional pariah – the latter to do with drinking at work, the former, far more tragically, the effect of his sexuality (a scene in a diner is heartbreaking).

Del Toro and co-writer Vanessa Taylor invest these characters with plenty of depth and dimension.

The performances are astounding across the board. Sally Hawkins' ability to do so much with just facial and hand expressions is breathtaking, her turn an exceptionally-realised one that sees the power behind her eyes, her soul speaking out where her voice cannot.

Doug Jones' performance as the creature is equally impressive; shorn of CGI accoutrements, this is a throwback and proof that you can do so much more, and so realistically, by eschewing the computer for a 'man-in-a-suit', conveying mood and emotion with as much power as Hawkins.

Richard Jenkins is incredible as Elisa's neighbour, heartbreaking and funny, while Octavia Spencer may be written a little less than the others but she still shows her class in a winning turn.

Michael Shannon's cruel performance as the government agent committed to cutting open the creature is a despicable one leavened a tad by Del Toro's depictions of him at home, a man determined to better his status in life by standing on those he feels are beneath him.

It's a film that will no doubt bear repeat viewings given how subtly written and delivered it is, transcending what could have been something gauche and genre-heavy into something captivating and beautiful.

This is a film that showcases just how good a director Guillermo Del Toro is, and makes The Shape of Water an absolutely transcendent experience.

VERDICT – A magnificent, magically dark story with an engaging and believable relationship at the core, The Shape of Water is a glorious effort from Guillermo Del Toro.

Featuring some absolutely breath-taking performances from the likes of Sally Hawkins et al, this is a film that will immerse and enchant.

Essential viewing.

Woman becomes boss of the Royal Mint

THE Royal Mint today appointed Anne Jessopp as its new chief executive and Deputy Master of the Mint.

She will lead work to provide Britain with its cutting-edge secure currency and will also develop the commemorative coin and bullion arm of the business.

On a visit to the Royal Mint, the Exchequer Secretary officially confirmed Anne Jessopp's appointment – the first female to take up the role in the Royal Mint's 1,100 year history.

Speaking of her new appointment, the Deputy Master of the Mint, Anne Jessopp said: "I am delighted to be appointed to lead this unique and important British organisation.

"The Royal Mint has an impressive history of over 1,100 years and its longevity is due to its ability to adapt as society changes.

"This was never truer than today, as we reinterpret the Royal Mint for the 21st century, building on the values that have been at the heart of the organisation throughout our history – authenticity, security, precious metals, craftsmanship and design.

"I have had the privilege of working for the Royal Mint for almost 10 years and it is testament to the great colleagues and opportunities I have had, that I have been able to develop the skills that enable me to take on this role."

The Exchequer to the Secretary to the Treasury, Robert Jenrick, welcomed the appointment and said: "Anne Jessopp brings a wealth of expertise to this role. With her decade of experience at the Royal Mint, I am confident she will ensure the UK continues to have the most secure currency in the world, and our coins are loved and collected the world over.

"It may have taken over 1,000 years, but the Mint is now finally led by a woman, and I am certain Anne will do a great job."

What does the Deputy Master of the Mint do?

As chief executive of the Royal Mint, Anne will be tasked with running the Great British institution which produces up to 90 million coins every week. At the top of her in-tray will be overseeing the introduction of the new 50 pence coin, announced last week, to mark the centenary celebrations of women's suffrage.

Her official position as Deputy Master of the Mint is one that is steeped in history. Her first ceremonial role will be to lead the annual Trial of the Pyx.

First held in 1282, the Trial of the Pyx tests the integrity of the nation's coins, ensuring that they are the proper weight and size, and contain the right amount of precious metals.

Every February, coins of each denomination struck by the Royal Mint are selected at random and locked away in the Pyx chests.

In a ceremony, which has not changed since before Henry VIII's reign, the Deputy Master of the Mint brings these chests to London's Goldsmiths' Hall, where the coins are checked by an independent jury.

The jury consists of leaders from the financial world and six assayers from the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths who, wearing traditional red robes, put the coins to the test.

After two months of rigorous testing, the trial reconvenes and the Queen's Remembrancer asks the jury for its verdict.

In May, this verdict will be given in the presence of the Deputy Master of The Royal Mint and the Chancellor of the Exchequer (or a representative).

Remarkably, the history books reveal that if the coins fail the test, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is the ceremonial Master of the Mint, risks losing a hand as punishment.

It should be made clear that in the trial's long history, 94 Minters have had their right hands cut off by order of the King.

However, this has not happened for hundreds of years.

Art exhibition is a family affair

THE current exhibition in Old Hall, Cowbridge is by a husband and wife team from Penarth, both of whom are members of VOGA, the society for professional artists and craftspeople in the Vale of Glamorgan.

Geraldus John is a writer, poet and freelance artist originally from west Wales who now works predominantly in oils and mixed media and whose works have close links with music and industry.

Shirley Anne Owen uses mixed media on paper and canvas to create landscapes and drawings and is a member of the Welsh Group of artists; she has many works in private collections in the UK and abroad.

The exhibition runs until March 1.

'We must tackle the stigma surrounding mental health issues'

ABOVE: Andrew RT Davies joins Andrew Templeton and his team to support the #IAMWHOLE campaign.

MORE support must be provided for people affected by mental health issues in Wales, South Wales Central AM Andrew RT Davies has said.

Mr Davies recently visited the YMCA at their Cardiff base – to discuss the support they provide with chief executive Andrew Templeton.

The #IAMWHOLE campaign aims to encourage young people to challenge harmful language and negative stigma surrounding mental health – and encourage others to speak out and seek help.

Last week in the Senedd Welsh Conservatives tabled a motion calling on the Welsh Government to provide better mental health support in Wales, which received cross-party backing.

Welcoming the Welsh Government's support for the motion Mr Davies paid tribute to AMs who spoke of personal experiences during the debate.

Mr Davies said: "Mental health issues are as important as physical ones – but because we cannot see them they do not always get treated with equal prominence.

"It's vital we change this and provide those affected with the support they need.

"I'm therefore very grateful to the team at the YMCA for taking the time to meet and discuss the excellent work they have been doing.

"I am delighted to support their #IAMWHOLE campaign, which seeks to tackle the stigma surrounding mental health.

"I welcome the cross-party support last week's debate received – and I look forward to continuing to work to improve mental health provision in Wales."

KARL'S ON A WINNING STREAK AFTER 5 STONE WEIGHT LOSS!

A BARRY slimmer who used his own weight-loss to help others to shed the pounds has been shortlisted in a national competition.

Karl Payne, who runs the Cadoxton Moors Slimming World group, was invited to the organisation's head office as part of its national Consultant Slimmer of the Year competition.

Karl, who has lost an incredible 5 stone, was just one of 30 consultants from across the UK and Ireland to win a place at the semi-finals. Every single one of Slimming World's 4,800 consultants have lost weight with the organisation themselves, giving them a unique understanding of the struggles slimmers often face.

At his heaviest, Karl weighed almost 16 stone and found both his health and confidence were beginning to suffer. So in June 2016, the 44-year-old joined his local Slimming World group.

He started following Slimming World's Food Optimising healthy eating plan and says: "Being able to lose weight without feeling hungry seemed too good to be true; I'm living proof that filling up on healthy foods like fruit and veg, pasta, potatoes and lean meats really does work."

"I was nervous when I first walked through the door of my Slimming World group, but it was without doubt one of the best decisions I've ever made. My whole life is completely different."

"Before I lost weight, I didn't do any real exercise, Slimming World helped me to become much more active too and now I run regularly. I love running so much that I successfully competed in nine local running events throughout 2017, including the Cardiff Half Marathon."

After losing 5st and reaching his target weight of 10st 7.5lb in March 2017, Karl decided to train to become a Slimming World Consultant himself.

Now he supports 65 slimmers at his group in Barry, which is held every Monday at 5.30pm at Cadoxton Moors Community Centre, rear of Edmund Place, Barry, CF63 2NX.

He says: "Before I lost the weight I could never have imagined having the confidence to try new things."

"My worries about my weight almost consumed me and I found it very difficult to do many of the things I used to enjoy, like playing with my children, going out for meals, wearing fashionable clothes, dressing up for nights out.

"Since joining Slimming World, I might have lost weight, yet I've gained so much more. Bags of confidence, a new zest for life and, of course, my own business!"

"My consultant was such a key part of my journey that the opportunity to do something for people in a similar situation just seemed perfect."

"I honestly feel as though I have the best job in the world, and to have reached the semi-finals of the competition as well is just a dream come true."

Karl's weight loss put him in the running for Slimming World's Consultant Slimmer of the Year 2018 competition, which was open to all of the club's consultants who have lost weight in the last 12 months.

He attended the finals at the club's head office in Derbyshire on February 4 and was presented with a certificate and gift by Slimming World's CEO, Caryl Richards. Unfortunately, Karl was not the overall winner of the competition, but he did walk away feeling 10ft tall, feeling like a winner!

Everyone is welcome at the Barry Slimming World Group; for further information, visit www.slimmingworld.co.uk or call Karl on 07411 621 866.

The same man, but different faces.

Karl Payne

Back in the old days....

Vale MP defends economic record

THE Government has delivered on promises to help finance further growth in the Welsh economy, says Alun Cairns.

The Welsh Secretary and Vale MP said the sum allocated to Wales under the block grant will not fall below £115 per head of the population – compared to £100 in England.

Mr Cairns told MPs: "Some have called for that funding flow for decades, and it is this Government who have delivered on those calls."

"In accordance with the agreement, the Welsh Government have the means to grow the Welsh economy, to attract investment, to maintain public services and to support hard-working people across Wales."

Following the devolution of stamp duty land tax and landfill tax from April, in addition to the Welsh rate of income tax next year, the Welsh Government will be able to raise more of their own funding through taxes.

"That will make the Welsh Government—and the Assembly in general—much more accountable to the people they serve."

Mr Cairns said that in the autumn Budget the UK Government adjusted the Welsh Government's block grant to take that into account, and the Welsh Government had welcomed the change at the time.

He said the Budget also included specific measures that will be of benefit to Wales, continuing for instance to support the Cardiff and Swansea city deals by investing £650 million over the next 20 years.

NEED A MORTGAGE?

- First time buyers including low deposit mortgages
- Home Movers
- Buy to Let
- Remortgage like for like and additional borrowing
- Help to Buy
- Bad credit Mortgages
- Shared Ownership (above equity)

Think carefully before using any other advice regarding your home. Your home may be repossessed if you do not keep up repayments on your mortgage. The FCA do not regulate buy to let mortgages.

It was 140 years ago that Penarth's first train arrived!

by Brian Keitch

THE opening of Penarth Docks in 1865 was the first step in the creation of the town of Penarth but it was not until February 20, 1878 that a railway was built to the town itself.

From the station's position one assumes that the town was expected to extend further south – which eventually it did for the new railway station attracted few shops and businesses to its quarter of the town. All that lay ahead was a few hamlets and farms.

When the southward expansion did come it was in the form of residential development, and Glebe Street and Windsor Road remained the shopping centre of Penarth.

The arrival of the railway in the town was greeted with celebrations, but as the South Wales Gazette suggests, people in the 'centre' of the town were little concerned.

The report entitled Opening of Penarth Railway appeared in the Gazette on February 25, 1878 and included the following:

'This new line of railway was opened on Wednesday. During Tuesday and Tuesday night the officials of this company were kept busy in completing the necessary arrangements, and so successful were they that the opening passed off without a hitch or delay of any kind.

'The road over the railway,

West House, the station and the platform were gay with flags of all countries and colours. To enliven the proceedings, the band of the Penarth Rifles had been specially engaged, and just before the time advertised for starting the first train, put in an appearance led by Sergeant Instructor Parsons.

'The Penarth Artillery Band under the leadership of Mr Paul Draper also attended. Both bands accompanied the train to Cardiff and back. The first train left Penarth at 7.35 and about that time the platform became crowded with a large number of people who intended to accompany it on its first journey.

'A still much larger number congregated on the bridge over the railway, from which standpoint they had a good view of the line and platform.

'With Taff Vale Railway punctuality, the train consisting of five carriages was set in motion. The engine driver resigned his post for the time being in favour of Mr R. Forrest, agent of the Windsor estate, who as representative of Lord Windsor, thus had the honour of driving the first passenger train from Penarth to Cardiff.

'Penarth Dock station was reached by 7.40 and Cardiff by 7.50. The train left Cardiff for the return journey at 8.30 and arrived at Penarth at 8.45. On alighting the passengers at the instigation of Mr DT Alexander gave three cheers for the success of the new railway, and three cheers for Mr Forrest, to whose exertions much of the success attending the completion of the line is due.

'The following officials attended the opening – Messrs J Hurman, traffic superintendent, J Edwards, E Edwards, J Riches, Leyshon and E Strange of the Taff Vale Railway, and Mr Allen of the Great Western Railway. The Rev C Parsons, the rector, and a large number of gentlemen and tradesmen of the place accompanied the train, which was run free.

'The guard was Richard Carpenter and the engine driver, Daniel Thomas. A banquet in honour of the event, which a large number of gentlemen attended was given at the Penarth Hotel in the evening and to this agents of the Windsor Estate and the officials of the Taff Vale Railway, who had assisted in the opening of the line were invited.'

The line to Penarth was doubled a few years later – the station expended to no fewer than four platforms on the opening of the line to Lavernock, Sully and Cadoxton in 1887 (plus a fifth – excursion platform).

In addition facilities were made for goods, carriages and locomotives. Now Penarth station has but one platform, but trains every 15 minutes throughout the day.

Ardderchog!

Bridgend Sports junior round-up

UNDER-7S

IT was great to see the rain holding off for the Bridgend Sports under-7s to enjoy a 'tag tastic' morning against Kenfig Hill.

While the overall score saw Kenfig Hill win, a fabulous effort was made by all the team. A big improvement was seen in the passing, much to the delight of the coaches.

The game saw some excellent tries. Ollie Balmer was top try scorer with four fantastic tries and five tags. Three further tries were scored throughout the game, and a speedy run by Tyler Pascoe resulted in a great try, as well as two tags.

Leo showed a great presence throughout the game scoring a brilliant try and three tags. Ellis Kendall was on fire with a great try and six tags.

Bailey, Seb and Mikey were always among the action and defended fiercely. Top tagger was Archie Hall with 13 tags. Isaac had a brilliant game getting 'stuck in' at every opportunity – we saw four great tags from him. Oscar Gee had an amazing game – you could tell he turned seven! He was running quickly, passing well and bagged himself four tags.

The scoresheet is a pleasure to review, a real team effort with achievements from everyone.

Player of the game was awarded to Oscar Gee for his improvement, speed and overall efforts.

Most improved player was awarded to the speedy Leo D'Adamo, who not only had a great game today, but he has been consistent in his achievements and always gives 100 per cent every week.

UNDER-8S

Bridgend Sports 23 Kenfig Hill 28

THERE was some great passing and good tagging all round.

The under-8s played some great rugby with everyone working well together.

There were tries from Dan Perriman, Rafferty Williams, Kayden Jones, AJ Cawley, Gethin Jones, Zack Hughes, Dan Flower, Max Hearing, Harry Trevelyan and Rhys Evans.

Player of the Week goes to Dan Flower.

UNDER-9S

Bridgend Sports 15 Kenfig Hill 45

SPORTS took a little while to get into this game, with the bigger opposition using their bulk to break through some suspect defence.

The Mules played a simple but effective game plan, hitting their big players up the middle before moving it wide for their flyers to run in unopposed.

However, all the Sports players today contributed, with Billy, Griff Lewis, Jayden Walters, Liam Sales and Stan McEvoy all putting in brave tackling performances.

With the ever-willing Leo Giraud, Gethin Evans and Harry Mallinson making some barn storming charges, they forced the opposition into dragging a few players in to try and stop them.

Quickly recycled ball allowed the likes of Noah

Roberts, Lucas Hostettler-Davies, Oskar Amerein, Ollie Alexandre, Cai Boucher and Will Howe to run the three-quarter line well.

Sports tries came courtesy of a brace from Leo Giraud and a try for today's Sports player of the match – Billy Carpenter-Davies.

UNDER-10S

Bridgend Sports 10 Kenfig Hill 55

THIS was a very hard game of rugby with the score not reflected by the score line against a strong and well drilled Kenfig Hill under-10s team.

The Sports started the match well with some good hard rugby and surprised Kenfig Hill with the first try of the match by Charlie Paget, but Kenfig Hill came back straight away with a few more tries. The Sports carried on fighting every ruck and also won plenty of Kenfig Hill's ball with good counter rucking.

The second half was much of the same, with Charlie scoring a well-deserved second try, but it was fantastic to see all 11 players play good hard rugby and see what the coaches have been trying to do in training go onto the field of play.

The player of the week went to Joe Perriman for an outstanding all round performance.

UNDER-11S

Sports 33 Kenfig Hill 14

A SCRAPPY win today against tough opposition as we would expect against the Mules.

We know the Mules are going to be aggressive but our notorious slow start appeared again this morning with Kenfig winning the contact area.

The game could not have started more perfectly. Sports kicked off the game, chased and made an excellent tackle. They then turned over the ball and Rhys Anthony scored the first try of the morning.

The rest of the first half Sports struggled to keep hold of the ball in the wet conditions and were second best in the ruck area.

The Mules scored a well worked try, going wide and exploiting the space as the Sports defence were too narrow. Sports struck back with Sam Gardner charging down a kick to score a try. The Mules finished strongly, scoring the final try of the half. All tries were converted 14-14.

In the second half we controlled the game much better with more patience and the rucking was much more aggressive, enabling us to have more ball. Three more tries were scored through Dominic John, Dan Harris and Jack Sperry. Jack also converted two of the three tries in the second half.

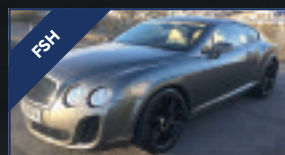

Well done to Jack, Dan, Tom, Rhys, Tyler, Eli, Dylan, Deacon, Curtis, Lewis, Dom, Sam King, Sam Gardner, Toby and Evan.

UNDER-12S

Bridgend Sports 31 Cambrian Welfare 7

TRY scorers for the Sports were Tom Chick who scored a hat trick, Callum Lewis and Cian John.

There were three conversions by Callum Jones.

Wayne makes it 350 not out for Athletic

WAYNE FOOKS, the daddy of the first team, made his 350th senior appearance for the Athletic in the 20-8 victory against Aberavon Quins.

This club legend has the most Athletic appearances for a forward and stands second only to current coach Stuart Morris, who has 458 senior appearances on the all-time Athletic senior appearances list.

Two of the current Athletic coaching team – backs coach Stuart and forwards coach David Williams – played alongside Wayne earlier in his career.

Having played in most of the club age group teams, Wayne played youth before 20 seasons ago, in 1998, he made his first senior appearance. He has played 281 times for the 1st XV and 69 for the 2nd XV.

Wayne has seen the club progress from the old Division 5 through to the championship, and currently doing well in Division 1 West Central, holding off the challenge of many club props of far greater stature than him. Not many opposing props have outscrummaged him.

Remarkably he came back from a double ankle and leg fracture in a championship game at Narbeth two seasons ago. He has crossed for 29 tries and has 145 points to his name.

Wayne remembers playing in a Silver Ball final with the likes of Lee Byrne, Stuart Morris, Robert Coles, Gareth Bartlett and Lee Grabham in the same team.

He is a very popular player and person with everybody associated with club to which he has given so much. This was duly recognised when he was once awarded clubman of the year. He is also among a handful of players awarded an Athletic cap.

Wayne coached the mini and juniors, tracking his son Brandon (now with the Youth Rags) through the age groups from under-7 to under-16. He is now on a second cycle coaching the under-7s, currently the team in which his daughter Lauren plays.

Team manager Paul Hearne, added: "Wayne, or 'Wayne the train' as he has become known to his team mates, is without doubt an integral part of the 1st XV as well as the club. He is a clubman through and through and to play so many games is a testament to his dedication and fitness. He is a secret trainer seen in a gymnasium most mornings!"

"Wayne is the only human being I know who can eat his own bodyweight in pies and pasties and still be able to train and play! Seriously, he is a credit to Bridgend Athletic RFC and long may he continue playing for us."

Forwards coach David Williams, remarked: "Wayne has been great to coach. To play in the demanding position of prop forward for so long is a massive achievement."

Backs coach and the only former Ath player with more appearances (458) than Wayne, Stuart Morris, perfectly summed up Wayne: "For me, he is an exceptional club man, a very good trainer who, over the years, has become a cornerstone of the 1st team side/squad."

"A mark of his commitment to Bridgend Athletic, is returning from a career-threatening injury at the age of 37 to retain his position in the first team. He is a credit to our club, his family and himself."

Young Rhooose boxer takes record to three wins out of four

LAST Friday, February 16, Rhooose ABC came away with a win from a show put on by Pentine Boxing Club in Newbridge.

That victory came from 12-year-old Brandon Harris (48kg), who was on good form.

Brandon continuously put his opponent under pressure by coming forward in all three rounds.

With head coach Michael Smyth away on National Squad training duties, coach Wayne Cummins was in the corner with the 12-year-old fighter.

It was a strong performance and a unanimous decision made this bout Brandon's third win of four fights.

Rhooose ABC trains Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6pm to 7.30pm.

Vale of Glamorgan Football League Round up

KARL STEEL grabbed a hat trick as St Athan remained top of the Premier Division following a 4-1 victory over Cowbridge Town with Joe Laing notching the other.

Rhoose kept the pressure on the leaders as they trounced Island Marine 7-3 to stay a point off top. The goals came from a Jordan Owen hat-trick, Nick Good double, Dave Bevan and Tom Webb.

However, the looming shadow of FC Barry Belgrade casts a shadow over the league. Belgrade, who didn't play yesterday, now have five games in hand over the leaders and are five points behind.

In Division One, Cardiff Airport reduced Sully Sports lead to seven points following a conclusive 3-0 win over Cwm Talwg. Cogan secured their first win in four with a 2-0 victory over Cadoxton Athletic to stay fifth.

Llantwit Major made it 12 out of 12 with a mammoth 9-2 win over Vale Madrid, Gethin Jennings bagging a hat-trick, Andy Shaw a brace, with Lewis Brown, Glyn Davies, Lee Tracey and Luke Beattie adding the others. The win puts Llantwit 11 points clear, but Cadoxton Barry do have two games in hand. BRT Dynamos went third as they edged out Barry Albion 1-0.

Next week Rhoose host St Athan and Barry Athletic play FC Barry Belgrade in a super Saturday.

The handicap winners were Debbie Dawkins and Dave Thomas.

As always, new members are welcome at the club and a partner may be arranged, if required.

If you would like to join us, ring any of the following numbers, 01446 418380 or 01446 733425 or 01446 735592.

Whilst our current class for beginners continues to run on Friday mornings, new members wishing to start will be able to join the next beginners class commencing in September 2018.

Tim and Alan in fine form

VALE of Glamorgan trainer Tim Vaughan and his stable jockey Alan Johns were in good form recently.

At Sandown Park on Friday, Tim's Tanit River, a 16-1 chance, landed the Alanbrook Challenge Handicap Chase, coming home three lengths ahead of Aubusson.

At Ascot 24 hours later, Tim's five-year-old Point Of Principal won the opening Ascot Schools Novices Hurdle, beating the Nicky Henderson-trained Dame De Compagnie by the minimum distance – a nose.

A 12-1 chance, Point Of Principal gave Welshman Alan Johns his first Ascot winner.

Barry Athletic cricket under-11s.

BARRY Athletic Cricket youth section will be wearing a new playing shirt this year, thanks to their continuing partnership with Cadwaladers.

The under-11s play in the Cardiff and Vale Junior cricket league. Cadwaladers have been a key sponsor for the cricket youth section over the past few years and Barry Athletic club members will be able to enjoy what Cadwaladers island café has to offer with 20 per cent discount cards throughout the season.

Barry Athletic Cricket Youth section would like to thanks Cadwaladers for their support and the under-11s, with their new developing side will look forward to enjoying another competitive season in the league playing against local sides such as Dinas Powys, Cowbridge, Vale, Miskin and Penarth.

Mark Ellis, junior coordinator commented: "I am really pleased to be able to have Cadwaladers as our sponsor. They have been supportive since day one and we are fortunate to have such an established and successful organisation behind us."

"My thanks go especially to Paul Morton, the operational manager who has enabled this to happen."

On Thursday afternoons at 2pm, again at Nolton Church Hall, there is a gentle bridge session when help is available with the bidding.

All sessions are played in a friendly manner, visitors and new members are always welcome.

Lessons for beginners are being run by Steve Burgoyne, please contact Steve for further details on his number below.

On Thursdays there is a session run by Steve starting at 1pm on slightly advanced topics, this week's subject is how the auction might continue after partner opens 1NT.

For further information about the lessons and any other of the club activities, contact one of Steve Burgoyne 01656 661968 or David Newman 01656 649138.

A full programme at the Curre and Llangibby races

THE South Wales and Monmouthshire Point-To-Point season at Howick near Chepstow on Sunday got off to a sad start when, in a match for the opening Members' race, Steve Whistance's French-bred War Path, ridden by Hannah Lewis, and which had been made a long odds-on favourite, broke a leg after jumping the last fence when well clear of Caroline Marles's 11-year-old home-bred Always Archie, ridden by Craig Dowson.

A former winner under Rules for Tim Vaughan, Always Archie was returning to the racecourse for the first time in two years. Nine runners faced the starter for the Confined race and two of these, Colorado Doc and Bob The Butcher are owned and trained by David Bridge of the Dunraven Stud, Pyle near Bridgend. The heavy ground took its toll of several of the runners, but the odds-on Colorado Doc, the seven-year-old son of Dr Massini, under Bradley Gibbs, jumped for fun in the testing conditions and came home a distance ahead of stablemate Bob The Butcher, ridden by Mr Brace's 16-year-old grandson, Connor Brace.

The closest finish of the day came in the Restricted race when the favourite, Championne, ridden by 'Comeback Kid' Nick Williams, of Ogmore by Sea, made most of the running to win by a neck from Double You Be, partnered by Ed Bailey.

Championne is owned by The Egerton, Chandler & Harris Partnership and trained by former leading rider, Jonathan Tudor, of Merthyr Mawr, who said: "My 16-year-old son Jack does all the work. I'm afraid to go near the horse." Six runners went to post for this race and it is interesting to note that the first three to finish – Way Wild West was third – were the only Irish-bred horses in the race.

Nick Williams's mount Snow Puma was made favourite to win the following Five, Six And Seven-Year-Olds Open Maiden race for which there were five starters, but came down at the 10th fence. Byron Moorcroft, having his first ride of the season on the seven-year-old bay gelding Mason Dixon, gained a 15 lengths win over the early leader, Light Flicker, the only other finisher.

Mason Dixon was a first winner for Miss Georgia Kemeys of Bridgend, and is trained in Pontypridd by Kieran Price and qualified with the Glamorgan Hunt.

Mr Price said: "We bought him in Ireland recently and he is easy enough to train."

Nine runners went to post for The Roger Lewis Memorial Mixed Open Race and only three of them came home.

Moral Hazard, a nine-year-old son of Milan, was given a cracking ride by Bradley Gibbs and jumping the last in front, went on to win by four lengths from Pink Eyed Pedro ridden by Connor Brace, with Repeat Business (Nick Williams) the only other finisher, a further 12 lengths back in third spot.

Owned by west Wales area secretary Beverley Thomas and Adrian Simpson, Moral Hazard, a 13-2 chance, was returning after a long lay off and is the only horse now trained by Beverley who has saddled many winners in her time.

"He's a darling to train and I ride him myself, but the win came as a complete surprise as he really hates the heavy ground."

It was only fitting that the late Roger Lewis had a race named after him at Howick as it was here as a 14-year-old back in 1959 that he had his first win on April Pennant, and that in 1980 he made his last winning ride over the Howick course on Boundtoke.

The Open Maiden race was won by Scotsman Mr Frank Michael's seven-year-old grey mare, Bean Liath who, ridden by 23-year-old Irishman Shane Quinlan, won by 15 lengths from the Bobby Thomas partnered Padre Tito with Master Hide (James Jeavins) a further 10 lengths away in third spot.

Bought in Ireland by Mr Michael for a friend who changed his mind and turned down the horse, Bean Liath is trained by Kirstin Mellor and is qualified with the Curre & Llangibby.

Quinlan, who has ridden 11 winners under Rules, was chalking up his third win between-the-flags.

AM welcomes Twenty20 franchise: 'An exciting new chapter for the game'

THE South Wales Central AM and Welsh Conservative Leader in The Senedd, Andrew RT Davies has welcomed the announcement that Cardiff will be the base for one of the new T20 cricket franchises starting in 2020.

The eight teams that will participate in the tournament were announced by the ECB recently and it is hoped will replicate the successful Australian Big Bash.

Describing the news as "an exciting new chapter for the game", Mr Davies said the whole of the south Wales region, including Cardiff, the Vale and RCT, would benefit from the franchise.

He said: "The new

T20 tournament has the potential to put Cardiff on the map and bring economic benefits to the Cardiff will be at the centre of it.

"Hosting one of the eight teams in the new competition is a tremendous opportunity and we only have to look at what Australia has achieved with the Big Bash to see how successful it could be."

"This includes both the Vale and RCT, so it is excellent news for the region. "I am already looking forward to our area playing a key role in what will be an exciting new chapter for the game."

DINAS POWYS RFC LOSE IN 'THRILLER'

THIS was a thrilling game of rugby in which the 'Villagers' of Dinas Powys scored four tries, gaining a bonus point in the process, but lost a nine-try thriller to their illustrious visitors Glamorgan Wanderers.

The contest can be divided into three sections: the first 30 minutes when the Villagers scored two tries and established a 12-0 lead; the next 40 when the powerful Wanderers pack dominated possession and denied the exciting home backline the ball (and within which they scored five tries); and the final 10 minutes when the home side came back and scored two further tries.

The Wanderers are pushing hard, along with Ystrad Rhondda, for promotion to the Championship and provided a stern test for the village side.

An interception by ex-Wanderer Darren Ryan on halfway saw him scamper clear for a try converted by scrum half Sam Middlemiss and establish a 7-0 lead after two minutes.

The third tackle of the game saw home centre Ciaran Driscoll sent to the sin bin by the enthusiastic match official.

Despite being a player short, the home side continued to dominate, and during this period a couple of scoring opportunities were allowed to slip.

The home side added to their score after half an hour as tight head prop Andrew O'Malia exploded off the back of a rolling maul to charge over from 10 metres.

Following this period of play the Villagers' captain, hooker Tom Baister, was forced to leave the fray and the home side had to reorganise their pack.

The Wanderers responded well and for the first time in the game they started to show some real structure to their play.

From a penalty they established good field position and the forwards went on a concerted drive.

As the maul edged close to the line, Lee Highgate peeled away and he forced his way over with help from Max Wootton to put the visitors back in the game.

The half time score was 12-7.

The Villagers were looking dangerous at the start of the second half; however, a dropped pass was fly hacked on by visiting centre

Cameron Gibbon in his own half and he followed up to touch down and put the Wanderers ahead.

The visitors' pack was dominating and a further three tries were from the same playbook, as the Wanderers mauled their way over the tryline.

The final 10 minutes saw the bulky Wanderers pack tire and the home side ran the ball from all areas of the pitch. A huge ball-carrying performance by Villagers' number 8 Corey Imperatto was augmented by flanker Ryan Shallish and replacement hooker Dan Watts.

The Villagers' spirit was indomitable and two tries from full back Nathan Williams, following powerful runs by wingers Jim Wiltshire and Dan Evans, on either touchline allowed the supporting Williams to cross in turn in both corners.

An enjoyable, physical contest that entertained the large crowd and tested the resolve of both teams, and which will provide coaches Dunleavy and Ryan with the belief that they have a group of players that will develop and improve as they gain experience at this level.

Barry RFC have to work hard for bonus point win

A BONUS point win for Barry away to Clwb Rygbi sees them move to joint third in the table.

Despite the 32-18 scoreline, Barry were made to work hard for their victory against stubborn opponents who threatened to derail their progress for large parts of the game.

Clwb got off to the best possible start after early Barry pressure was stemmed. A long 22 drop out by Clwb saw play turned close to the Barry line, where a penalty award turned into a converted penalty try as Barry transgressed.

The early setback woke Barry up and they proceeded to use their possession to gain territory despite coming second best at the set piece.

A penalty took Barry to the home 22 where, following a forward drive, the ball was released to the backs and Tom Perry, coming onto the ball at pace, crashed through the defence to score under the posts. It gave Kyle Barross the easiest conversion which brought the scores level.

An attack straight from the restart looked to have given Barry another try, only for a last-ditch tackle to save the day and earn Clwb a penalty to relieve the pressure.

The frantic start to the game ended and saw things settle down as both sides looked for territorial advantage with neither prepared to yield. Clwb were ending on the wrong side of the referee as the penalty count grew, and Barry took advantage of this to take the lead with a further Kyle Barross penalty.

That lead lasted only seconds as Barry infringed at the restart to allow Clwb to draw level at 10-10 as the half wore on.

Barry hit back again as the game see-sawed either way, when, after driving into the Clwb half they spread the ball and a long Perry pass found Luke O'Sullivan to cross wide out for an unconverted try.

The scoring continued and this time it was Clwb who were rewarded with an unconverted try as Barry again failed to stop the forward drive from a short-range penalty, bringing the scores level once again.

That was not to be the final score of the half as Wayne Jones caught the restart to take play deep into the Clwb half, where the recycled ball found Einar Scott whose cross kick to the corner was gathered expertly by Dave Provis to score a well-executed try – and with Kyle Barross successful with the conversion Barry led 22-15.

There was still time in the half for Clwb to set up an attack and as Barry again were penalised, they took the option of three points for the half to end 22-18 and all to play for in the second period.

Barry came out of the blocks firing on all cylinders and kept play in the Clwb half where their efforts proved fruitless as the combination of gritty opposition defence and poor decision-making stopped them adding to the scoreboard.

Clwb were to lose two players to the sin bin but still thwarted all Barry's attempts to score and in fact, played some of their best rugby during this period.

Back at full strength, it was Barry's turn to defend as they were reduced to 13 players and for a while it just seemed a matter of time before Clwb scored, but huge credit to all the players as they defended for their lives and withstood the onslaught for several minutes.

For most of the half at this time, Barry had refused penalty chances at goal to seek the sin bin but a bonus point. The change of heart gave them two quick opportunities in quick succession, the first from fully 60m hit the post, the second saw Kyle Barross successful to give Barry a 7-point lead.

As the game entered its last minutes Barry continued to seek the elusive bonus point and with Clwb tiring and conceding penalties, the chance was there.

The try when it came was well worked by the threequarters following a strong forward drive to create space on the outside for Tom Perry to cross for his second try, and with Kyle Barross adding the extras, Barry drew clear at 32-18.

The match finished with that scoreline and they can thank the tremendous defensive efforts in those minutes they were reduced to 13 players which denied Clwb any points.

The win takes Barry to joint third on points, and with the two sides above them due to be played in the next few weeks, some exciting rugby awaits.

It was also a great day for the Second XV who travelled to unbeaten Rumney and came away with a bonus point win by 24-5. Two tries and conversions to Dylan Robertson were added to by John Miles and Harry Moyle for an emphatic victory.

The next fixtures will, due to the Wales v Ireland game, be on March 3 when the First XV take on Cambrian Welfare and the Second XV meet St Peter's, both at home, kick off 2.30pm.

There was great excitement at the club on Saturday evening as the club lottery was finally won. The lucky winner, Joel Williams, matched the winning numbers of 03 - 09 - 10 and 24 to claim the £8,750 prize. Two further ticket holders win £10 for matching three numbers.

The Lottery starts again this week with a jackpot of £1,000.

ANDY JAMIESON

Bonus point win for Cowbridge

COWBRIDGE travelled to Old Penarthians last Saturday looking for a convincing victory to keep up the promotion drive but a determined home performance kept the score to just 7-0 to the visitors.

Cowbridge disrupted a Penarth scrum, and slipped the ball to wing Will Williams who scored. It was converted by Ben Wright.

In the second half, Cowbridge scored again through flanker Joe Davies, converted again by Wright.

Old Penarthians closed the gap, scoring an unconverted try.

Taking advantage of a Penarth yellow card, good inter-passing by the backs put Tom James over for another try, also converted by Ben Wright.

Another try by Joe Davies secured the bonus point and a fifth, scored by Hywel Williams, was followed by the sixth and final try, with Will Williams scoring his second.

Try number five was unusual, as Wright missed that conversion, giving a final score of 40-5 to Cowbridge.

Will Williams' good week continued with his selection for Welsh Crawshays against Oxford University.

He came on with 30 minutes to go and scored a try!

On Monday both the Gambits and Quarks had home matches. Both of our opponents turned up with only four players – giving us a head start.

The Quarks in division two played the Nelson Rhinos. Nelson sit in mid-table, whereas the Quarks have been in bottom place for nearly the entire season.

While we lost on top board, three players who have all joined us since the start of the season, Jonathan Thomas, Michael O'Leary and Scott Turner all earned draws. With the Rhinos being a man short we ended up sharing the spoils.

We remain in 10th place (it sounds better than bottom) but we are within four points of safety. We have shown better form of late, winning two and drawing two of our last six games.

Our next game is in a couple of weeks' time, when we play the Cardiff Crowns, who are also haunted by the threat of relegation. A win for the Quarks would help the Camelots enormously.

In division four the Gambits entertained Pentrych C. The Pentrych side are in mid-table with a chance of making the promotion play-offs, but if they continue to default boards their promotion credentials will disappear.

There were some good performances from most of our players even in defeat. Ray Denyer, playing on board two for the first time, earned an excellent draw with Erion Pici on board four gaining a win.

Unfortunately, in our generosity we agreed to play the match over four boards and declined to accept the point for the default in board five; meaning we lost 2.5 - 1.5. This leaves us in bottom spot.

In division one the Bosons played the Cardiff Bishops on Wednesday. Both teams started the match on 29 points. At the end of the evening we had risen to only 30 points with a win from Ken Hannah. We remain in sixth place 4.5 points above the relegation zone but we are definitely looking over our shoulders.

A third consecutive win for the Bridgend A team have lifted them out of the bottom three for the first time this season.

The Barry Chess Club meets at 7:30pm each Monday at the West End Club, St Nicholas Road, Barry (CF62 6QY). The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess or just the occasional friendly games.

New players are very welcome to just turn up on the night but if you contact one of the club members through the website, we can explain what is happening on the night you have in mind, and arrange for someone to greet you on your arrival.

Sully Centurions Cricket Club

SULLY Centurions Cricket Club are looking to recruit new junior players for all age groups (under-9s, 11s, 13s and 15s).

Simply turn up at one of our junior net sessions which are held on Thursdays at Colcot Sports Centre, Barry (7pm-8pm) commencing today (Thursday, February 22). You will be sure of a friendly welcome.

All coaching is undertaken by fully qualified ECB cricket coaches and assisted by accredited volunteers who have been DBS checked.

The club is also going to be taking part in the ECB All Stars scheme for 5-8 year olds – for more details on this, go to www.ecb.co.uk/play/all-stars

For more details contact either: Ricki Griffith (secretary) 07854 983423 or Phil Baguley 07881 963238.

All senior players are also reminded that as from this week, the senior nets will be switching to Thursday evenings at the Colcot Sports Centre (7pm-8pm). All are welcome, both existing and new members.
